

MENDOTANS HURT IN CRASH SOUTH OF DIXON TODAY

Victims Of Hit-And-Run Driver: Dixon Man Faces Charges

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Holliston, Miss Uvanna Morsch, and Edward Reisser, all of Mendota, were victims of a hit-and-run driver on state highway, route 2, one mile south of Dixon about 1:30 this morning when their car turned over twice, injuring all of the occupants, the vampire car speeding on without stopping. The crash occurred just south of the Northwestern overhead viaduct south of Dixon. Mr. and Mrs. Holliston are in the Dixon public hospital, the former suffering from painful bruises and a possible injury to the spine. Mrs. Holliston suffered cuts and bruises. The other couple sustained only minor injuries and after receiving medical aid at the hospital, were taken to Mendota.

The four Mendotans were driving south on the highway and had passed under the viaduct overhead which is on a curve. The driver of the vampire car, coming from the south at a high rate of speed, appeared to be unaccustomed to the road, and swerved directly in front of the Holliston car, sideswiping it with such force as to turn it over twice. A salesman who was coming to Dixon, stopped and assisted in removing the injured passengers and then came to Dixon and sent an ambulance to the scene.

The accident was reported to the Sheriff's office about 3:30 this morning and Sheriff Fred Richardson started a checkup of the night garage both in this city and Sterling, where it was thought the vampire driver would be forced to stop for repairs to his machine, which was believed to have been quite badly damaged.

Dixon Driver Held. Wallace P. Smith of this city, was held under bonds of $2,000 by Judge Leech in the County Court this morning until March 24, on a charge of operating an automobile while in an intoxicated condition. Attorneys Brooks and Jones who appeared for Smith signed the bonds for the continuance.

Smith was arrested last evening about 5 o'clock by a deputy from the sheriff's office west of Dixon on the Lincoln Highway, where his car was badly damaged after crashing into a tree. Shortly before Smith is alleged to have struck a car driven by Robert Holz, Medusa Cement Company employe, east of Dixon on state highway, route 2. Holz followed Smith to the point west of the Borden condenser where the final crash occurred and where Smith's arrest was made.

Smith was taken to the county jail and Sheriff Richardson filed the information in the County Court this morning.

Explosion Churned Up Mother Earth Manietich Mich., Mar. 17—(AP)—Simultaneous explosion of 441,000 pounds of dynamite in one quarry churns up the landscape and sets up a quiver in Mother Earth that can be detected on seismographs hundreds of miles distant.

Those where some of the conclusions from the biggest commercial blast on record, set off at 4:00 P. M. Eastern Standard Time, yesterday at the quarry of the Inland Lime & Stone Company.

In Manietich, eight miles distant, the quake was barely perceptible but reports from Georgetown University, Washington, D. C., and Michigan State College at East Lansing said seismographs attuned to record earthquakes, detected the explosion.

In the interests of science the blast was carefully timed and set off at a radio signal from the Naval Observatory at Annapolis, Md. Its purpose was to break up a million and a quarter tons of limestone.

Laboring Men Of State Back Small

C. D. Anderson of Berwyn, Ill., who is president of International Railway Yardmasters' Association, was in Dixon yesterday in the interests of Len Small for Governor. Mr. Anderson is very enthusiastic over the reception that organized labor is giving to the former Governor's candidacy and he states that at least 95 per cent of the railroad men of the state are for Small. That ratio also holds good among union miners, Mr. Anderson says, and he declares that labor everywhere in Illinois is looking to Len Small to improve conditions and that working men generally hope for Small's nomination and election because they know from his past record that he will make their conditions better.

Former Judge Is Killed In Crash

Vincennes, Ind., March 17—(UP)—Jasper A. Benton, former judge of Lawrence county, Ill., was killed instantly when his automobile was struck by an east-bound Baltimore & Ohio passenger train at a crossing six miles west of Vincennes. The automobile was demolished and the pilot of the locomotive was damaged. Benton served 12 years as County Judge. He was a Benton county farmer. Georgia paid $1,622,266 to Confederate veterans in pensions during 1931.

Terse Items of News Gathered in Dixon During Day

BROTHER IS DEAD.

Dr. Z. W. Moss has received word of the sudden death Tuesday of his brother, William F. Moss of Long Beach, Calif. Mr. Moss, who has visited Dixon many times, is survived by his widow, his mother and three other brothers.

NEGRESS ACQUITTED.

Attorney A. G. Harris spent yesterday in Preppert where he attended the trial of Mrs. Nina Robinson, 22-year-old Negress, who was acquitted of a charge of murdering Joe Owens, 445, Negro, by a jury in the Circuit Court last night. The local attorney appeared for the defense.

AT ROAD MEETING.

Among Lee county men who attended the big road hearing in Springfield this week were J. W. Banks, Leslie Corwin, W. H. Carnahan, P. P. Gilmore and Arlo Gilmore of Compton and E. E. Vincent, H. W. Gehant, George Schuckel and Henry Ladenberger of West Brooklyn.

HAILED WELFARE FLOUR.

The Dixon Welfare Association is indebted to Theron Lerdall, local truckman, for hauling a load of flour from the mill at Morrison to Dixon. The Welfare Association bought Lee county wheat and had it ground into flour, effecting a great saving on the cost of the flour.

CONGRESSMAN COMING.

Postmaster John E. Moyer received information today of the presence of Congressman William R. Johnson of Preppert in Dixon Friday and Saturday of this week. The Congressman has returned home from long and active duty at the national capitol and will arrive in Dixon Friday evening, remaining through Saturday. Saturday afternoon he will address the meeting of the Dixon Women Voters league.

DELINQUENT ROLL FILED.

The annual list of delinquent special assessments for the past year are now on file in the office of City Clerk Blake C. Grover, where they will be held for the next week to permit property owners to pay the amounts before the list is turned over to County Treasurer Sterling D. Schrock for collection, when a penalty will be added. The delinquent list will be turned over to the county treasurer, March 28.

CASE CONTINUED.

George Meager of Amboy was arrested last evening in Amboy by Sheriff Fred Richardson on a disorderly conduct charge, the outgrowth of a box car scandal in Amboy several months ago in which several others were arrested. Taken before Judge Leech in the county court this morning Meager was placed under bonds of $1,000 and his case continued until March 24. In default of the bond, he was returned to the county jail.

LOST CLOSE DECISION.

Eddie Carlson, local boxer, lost another close decision last evening when he boxed Vince Perino of LaSalle, 118 pounds, in the feature bout of a eight match shoe at Ladd. Elwood McBeards, who is developing into a promising puncher and won a hard battle Monday night at LaSalle, was awarded the decision in his match last evening at the Ladd show against an opponent who outweighed him almost 10 pounds. Several of the local boxers are planning to enter an amateur boxing tournament to be held in LaSalle the last part of this month. A number of the boxers, however, are planning to continue on Page 2.

LOST EXPLORER SEEN BY HUNTER IN GREAT JUNGLE

Swiss Sportsman Talked With Col. Fawcett, Missing 7 Years

(Copyright, 1932, by United Press)

(Note: Stephen Rattin, Swiss big game hunter and trapper, with 14 years experience in the jungles of South America, has just returned to civilization with a sensational report that he had found Colonel H. P. Fawcett, a famous explorer, had been lost in the "great jungle" seven years since he started out to find a "lost civilization." Rattin's story obtained by C. A. Powell, and signed by Rattin for Powell, follows.)

BY STEPHEN RATTIN

(Written for the United States)

Sao Paulo, Brazil, March 17—(UP)—Englishman!

That one word, whispered falteringly by a white man garbed in animal skins and held captive by Indians in an inland jungle village gave me the first hope that I had found Colonel H. P. Fawcett.

Colonel Fawcett had been missing for seven years since he entered the jungles with several others to seek a "lost civilization."

And that one word, coming as it did, was enough to hold me in that village ten more days to get another chance to talk to the white captive whose face had been darkened by long experience in the jungle. An Indian headman prevented more talk at our first meeting.

I went into the northern jungles of the state of Mato Grosso (great jungle) last October to secure Indians for a hunting and trapping expedition and reached the settlement of Cacique (Headman) Macmaque of the Mucuriegas tribe, whose village is between the Xingu and Madeira rivers close to the frontier of Amazonas state.

When I was talking with the tall I noticed a white man, call it stature but rather heavy, with white hair and a beard, apparently about 65 years old. He did not approach me although he scrutinized me closely. Later I asked him if he spoke Portuguese and he whispered the one word falteringly: "Englishman!"

Was Ordered Away

The headman intervened and ended the conversation immediately, ordering the white man away. But my curiosity was aroused. I remained at the village for ten days determined to solve the mystery, if possible and win the confidence of the Indians so they would allow me to talk with the white man.

I got an opportunity to talk with him after four days. He told me he was Col. Fawcett and asked me to communicate with any British Consulate and with a "farmer named Paget."

This was all the information I could get except that he had been held prisoner for over five years and that the last of his companions had died the year before. (His companions were his son, Jack, and an Englishman named Raleigh Rimell.) When he told me this he became so emotional he could not continue speaking. He said nothing concerning the treatment given him by the Indians. He wore Indian garb. His skin was almost as dark as an Indian's. It was obvious that he was a white man.

Was Not Suffering

He did not appear to be suffering from hunger or sickness. But obviously he was completely dominated by the native chief. I promised him I would deliver his message and set off for Barretos, believing there was a British Consulate there. I reached Barretos after many days slow travel through the jungle but found no British officials. I then started for Sao Paulo, and after six weeks difficult journey made my report to the British Consul-General, Arthur Abbott. He considered my report the most definite clue yet found to Col. Fawcett's fate.

I believe the man I saw in the jungle was the missing explorer.

SOME DEMOCRATS BOLT SALES TAX PARTY PROGRAM

A Determined Fight Is On Against Tax In Lower House

Washington, Mar. 17—(AP)—In revolt against the party leadership some fifty Democrats of the House were banded today to wage a battle on the manufactures sales tax, but Republican votes now are counted on to preserve this key feature of the big revenue bill.

The showdown will come soon. General debate will be ended tonight and consideration of amendments on the billion dollar measure will start with tomorrow's session. It will take about a week however, to pass the bill.

The Democratic bolters decided in secret meeting last night to join the 26 or more self-styled "Allied Progressives" mostly Republicans, under Rep. LaGuardia (R. N. Y.). They pledged themselves to fight the sales tax but, their organizers said, did not adopt any substitute plans. The bolt leaders, Doughton of North Carolina and Rankin of Texas, asserted many of those at the meeting pledged additional votes from colleagues who did not appear. They claimed a majority of the Democrats would join them and that the sales tax, counted on to raise about half of the billion dollar new revenue, would be knocked out.

However, the Democratic Floor Leader, Rainey of Illinois, is virtually sure of 80 votes and the Republicans expect to muster 150, a safe margin for passage. The decision of New York's 23 Democrats to support the sales tax went a long way toward reassuring the leaders of victory.

The Democratic split is the first the party has suffered since the present House was organized and Speaker Garner was elected. His success up to now in keeping together the diverse elements in the small party majority has been a conspicuous feature of the present session.

Miss. Governor Is Guarded From Mobs

Jackson, Miss., March 17—(AP)—Plain clothes men were placed on guard at the governor's mansion as the result of a demonstration against the administration's sales tax proposal that culminated in a mass march of citizens through the city and into the Capitol. Efforts of the crowd to gain audience with Governor Martin Sennett Connor yesterday were unsuccessful. One man drew a pistol and threatened those that barred the door to the Chief Executive's office, but was pulled back into the crowd.

Rebuffed, the crowd milled about the grounds, crying for the Governor to appear and an hour later dispersed after distributing anti-sales tax placards over the Capitol grounds and the Senate chamber. The three-cent retail sales tax bill, approved by the House, is under consideration by the Senate Finance committee.

Boy Starts 177th. Day In Respirator

Syracuse, N. Y., Mar. 17—(AP)—Smiling Clarence Hastings, 14, growing weaker, today started the 177th day of his battle for life. The blond youngster, son of King Ferry, kept alive for nearly half a year by the aid of a respirator in City Hospital, where he was received September 20 last, underwent an operation day before yesterday for an abdominal obstruction.

An attack of infantile paralysis left his respiratory organs paralyzed. Almost every day since he entered the hospital he has spent in the breathing apparatus.

The youngster's condition before the operation presented a problem to the physicians at the hospital. They were loath to remove him from the respirator, and yet the need of the operation was urgent. Finally the respirator was wheeled into the operating room and twice during the operation he was returned to the apparatus.

Production of German automobiles in 1932 declined 73 per cent compared with the previous year.

This Week — Now

New York, Mar. 17—(UP)—New York State now leads in the drive to obtain jobs for the unemployed, the result of the first month's work in the War against Depression Campaign.

Do figures such as these mean anything to you individually? Perhaps not, unless you are one of those affected. But this impressive total has been reached through the cooperation and work of many people—employers and home owners everywhere doing their individual little bit to help.

Have YOU helped by giving a job? Has this city done all that it can to find jobs for its unemployed?

Is there no further need for relief here? Dare we cease our efforts now that we know that the problem CAN BE SOLVED by the united action of Americans everywhere?

Let's get behind this great unselfish drive to put our unemployed back on the job, this week, TODAY!

Daring Bank Bandits Get Life

The four men who invaded the City National Bank of Clinton, Ia., before daybreak and waited to seize and bind 38 employees before the cashier could open the vault arrived, escaped with $106,000. A few hours later they were captured outside the city, and on the next day received sentences of life imprisonment. They are, left to right: above, Clifford Edwards, 22; Earl Jeffries, 19. Below: Guy Edward Morris, 19, and Lester Stanley, 28. Edwards was a native of Clinton; the others came from Louisville, Ky.

Noah Started His Trip 6,100 Years Ago—

London, March 17 (UP)—Today is the 6,100th anniversary of the beginning of Noah's trip in the ark, more or less.

Modern theologians agree that Noah sailed March 17 but are not sure about the year. Harold Peake, an English antiquarian, sets the date somewhere between 4250 B. C. and 4200 B. C.

According to ancient calendar makers and experts, the skipper and his animals were afloat until April 29 when they landed on Mount Ararat. The flood wiped out two groups who had settled in the flat country of the Tigris and Euphrates but the headman of a low lying village of Shurupak built a boat and escaped. Noah is supposed to have been the headman.

STARTLING WET DEVELOPMENTS IN OHIO TODAY

'Dry' Democratic Governor Comes Out For Referendum

Cleveland, Mar. 17—(AP)—Two surprising anti-prohibition developments in Ohio, with possibly far-reaching reverberations, entered the forefront of national politics today. In Cleveland, Maurice Mazchke, National Republican Committeeman, disclosed that for the first time since prohibition, a majority of Ohio's delegation will be known to be wet.

At Columbus, the Democratic Governor George White who was listed by the Anti-Saloon League as a friend of prohibition when elected two years ago, was on record today as favoring a referendum on the 18th amendment.

Gov. White, the state's "favorite son" for the Democratic presidential nomination, made his referendum declaration for the first time, at a regional conference of the Women's Christian Temperance Union at Columbus last night.

Asserting his belief that prohibition supporters had erred in opposing a popular vote, the Governor startled the dry assemblage with the statement that he favored resubmission if for no other reason than to refute claims that the liquor laws were forced through during the World War when thousands of citizens were overseas.

Semi-suppressed "nays" greeted the remarks of the gray-haired Chief Executive who started his career as a gold-digger in the Klondyke, but he continued: "It is the right of my record to at least make these suggestions for your careful consideration."

Rep. Britten Would Modify Jones Law

Washington, March 17—(AP)—A bill to substantially repeal the Jones five and ten prohibition law has been introduced by Representative Britten (R. Ill.), who predicted it would pass if the Judiciary committee permits it to come to the House.

The five year penalty would be reduced to six months except in the case of known large scale or habitual violators of the prohibition laws, while the maximum fine would be cut from $10,000 to $500.

The bill is aimed, Britten said, at preventing heavy sentences "by intolerant or bigoted judges" for minor prohibition violations. He extended the Jones law is now discredited.

FIRST REPORT ON COLLECTION OF INCOME TAX

Initial Payments Are Tabulated At Over Twelve Millions

Washington, March 17—(UP)—The Treasury today made its first tabulation of March 15 income tax payments and reported an initial collection of $12,658,765. On the corresponding date last year, collection of $13,000,000 was reported by the Treasury.

The tax collections reported in today's Treasury statement represented only a small part of the taxes actually paid on March 15, as it requires some time for officials in the various internal revenue offices to tabulate the returns.

The income tax receipts listed for March 15 were larger than expected, being only about $350,000 less than collections on the corresponding day last year. However, officials said they did not expect the first quarter payments to total more than $175,000,000. Last year $335,000,000 was paid during the first quarter.

Total income taxes paid this month through March 15 were $44,701,384, compared with $58,124,904 for the corresponding period last year.

During the present fiscal year, $702,822,726 has been paid in income taxes by individuals and corporations, as compared with $1,229,445,929 for the corresponding period of the fiscal year 1931.

The bulk of the March 15 income tax payments probably will be reflected in the Treasury statement Saturday or next Monday. Experience of previous years shows that the largest payments usually are tabulated in the statements issued on the fourth and fifth days after the payments were made.

Director Of Match Monopoly Suicides

Reval, Estonia, March 17—(UP)—M. Margus, director of the Estonian match monopoly, was found dead yesterday and was believed to have committed suicide, police revealed today.

Margus formerly owned a match factory which Kreuger & Toll took over when the Estonian monopoly was former. Margus received a block of Kreuger & Toll shares and was appointed director of the monopoly.

Ivar Kreuger, financial genius of the huge corporation, killed himself in Paris Saturday.

Details of Margus' death were meagre. It was variously reported that he had been found shot or hanged.

It was understood that Ivar Kreuger's death caused an immediate reduction of Margus' salary as director of the monopoly and that deprecation of Kreuger & Toll shares handicapped his other operations.

Chicago Cut Price Dairy Was Bombed

Chicago, March 17—(UP)—A bomb explosion last night partly wrecked the building occupied by the Associated Dairy Company and today Martin Polakow, its president, announced that he believed the bomb was directed at him because of his determination to sell milk for seven cents a quart.

Polakow said he had received several telephone threats warning him not to open his new depot. He had spent more than $50,000 for new machinery and equipment and was preparing to open for business tomorrow.

Starving Self, Protest Against Present Conditions

Washington, Mar. 17—(UP)—Dr. Frederic F. Walter, B. A., M. A., Litt. D., is starving himself—he says it will continue until death—as a protest against unemployment conditions.

Dr. Walter has not taken food for 18 days, since Feb. 18. He is 57 years old and hopes his self-imposed fast will call attention to the plight of men of high scholastic attainments who are unable to find work.

Fearing that he would be considered insane when news of his fast became public, Dr. Walter had himself examined by Dr. Samuel A. Silk of the staff of St. Elizabeth's hospital.

"I could not regard Walter as insane although he may be abnormal in some respects," Dr. Silk reported. "He has had a lot of trouble and many disappointments but he is a scholar and a man of unusual intelligence."

Dr. Walter was educated at the University of New Zealand and in Europe, acquiring what he terms an "encyclopedical knowledge." He is of German birth, although he became a British subject by naturalization.

Coming to the United States in 1924, Walter was employed in the Library of Congress here. He resigned in 1926 as a protest against what he believed were unjust promotion methods. Now he has spent all his savings and is living at the Salvation Army hotel.

Walter says that he has taken only water and eaten one peanut since his fast began.

"I was hungry for the first three days," he said. "Since then I have had no appetite."

The only time he was tempted to eat, according to Walter, was when he saw some peanuts in a store window. He bought some and ate just one.

He estimates that he has lost a pound a day since the fast began and his loose fitting clothes would substantiate the claim. He did not weigh himself, however, when he ceased eating.

"I am finding it harder and harder to walk," he said, "but as a grow weaker, my mind grows clearer. I believe it will be at least ten days or two weeks before I drop."

Vice-Chairman Of G. O. P. Favors Wets

Washington, March 17—(UP)—Ralph Williams of Oregon, Vice Chairman of the National Republican Committee, said after visiting President Hoover at the White House today that there was an increasing sentiment in favor of a wet plank in the Republican platform.

In response to questions in Mr. Hoover's attitude toward such a move, Williams said: "I have not asked the President whether he would run on a wet plank, but I have never known a man who would not accept remuneration after he has been in the White House for years."

Williams said there was "very strong agitation in favor of a wet plank of some kind among the Republicans." He said he believed such a plank could not be overthrown at the party convention in June.

"There is a feeling that the Republican party will have to adopt some kind of a platform to meet the changed situation," he continued, "and it will be an issue of paramount importance at the convention."

Federal Salaries Facing Reduction

Washington, March 17—(UP)—House leaders have decided to sponsor a general federal salary reduction bill, Chairman Byrns of the Appropriations committee told the United States today. Byrns said the measure would be ready for submission to the House the middle of next week.

The extent of the reduction has not yet been fixed. Byrns favors a graduated scale, which would be light on small salaries but reach 20 per cent on members of Congress, who receive $10,000 a year. Others want a flat 10 per cent cut.

The maneuver was regarded as part of the drive of leaders to get the sales tax through the House. The fact that the decision was reached in the midst of the tax fight supported that impression.

Fishing Schooner Burns: Crew Safe

Norfolk, Va., Mar. 17—(UP)—The Master and crew of the fishing schooner Ruth Mildred were brought safely ashore today from their craft which caught fire and burned to the water's edge last night.

Other vessels from the fishing fleet operating out of Hampton, Va., went to the Ruth Mildred's assistance immediately after the fire broke out. Half an hour after the fire began the Master of the Ruth Mildred and her crew of five were taken aboard the schooner Ariel which came into port this morning.

THREE BURNED BY BLAST

Chicago, March 17—(UP)—Three persons were seriously burned today in a mysterious explosion.

The victims are Mrs. Clara Schreiber, 53; her sister, Mrs. Matilda Vanbusan, 57, and a brother, Fred Schmidig, 56, Mrs. Schreiber may die.

The blast was attributed to an electric stove.

BOWMAN'S SECURE
"Red Cross" Agency
As announced in today's advertisement of Bowman Bros. Shoe Store, they have now secured the local agency for the famous Red Cross Shoes for women.
The "Red Cross" is one of the most widely known and most favorably known high grade women's shoes in America, and have stood the test of time, being one of the oldest known trade marks for high quality women's shoes.
The fact that they have come down in price more decidedly than any other known brand of shoes, having dropped from $10.00 and $12.00 per pair to $6.00 and $6.95, makes this one of the most desirable shoes to feature today, because they have maintained the same high quality that have made the "Red Cross" shoes one of the most famous makes in the history of American shoe making.
The shoes are built on the same famous Arch-Tone and Limit-Lasts, the exclusive features that enabled "Red Cross" to reach the high level of character and reputation they have enjoyed for so many years.
The fact that they now sell for about the same price as ordinary shoes, hundreds of women will welcome the opportunity of buying a much higher grade shoe at this low price.
Bowman Bros. invite you to come in and see the "Red Cross" shoes whenever convenient, whether you are ready to buy or not.—Adv.

Tornadoes In Tenn.

And Arkansas Today
Memphis, Tenn., March 17—(UP)—A tornado struck Jackson, Tenn., early today, damaging several industrial plants and the Negro section of the town. No deaths or injuries were reported.
A similar storm at Little Rock, Ark., earlier injured four persons and damaged houses and communication lines.
The storm at Jackson blew off the roof of the Lawrence mill and elevator plant and damaged three other industrial structures. Timbers rained on nearby Negro cabins. Damage was estimated at $50,000.
A severe hailstorm preceded the tornado at Little Rock. Only one of the injured in the Arkansas disturbance, J. J. Midgett, was severely hurt. He received a fractured skull.

Credit Man Spoke To Dixon Audience

Approximately 47 per cent of the business transacted by retail merchants today is done on the open account system, Earl Wright, Field Secretary of the National Retail Credit Association, told about 100 Dixon business and professional men and women at a meeting at the Hotel Hamilton last evening. Credit, which is a dominant force in business of today must be harnessed or controlled if prosperity is to return quickly, he added.
The speaker is conducting a good will tour of central western cities and was a guest of the Dixon Retail Credit Bureau and Chamber of Commerce yesterday. Attorney Gerald Jones, who is in charge of the local bureau, presided as chairman at the meeting last evening and introduced the speaker.
Local credit bureaus are important to the success of local business, the speaker said, in stressing the importance of the service bureau to the retail dealer as well as the purchaser. To extend credit wisely, he added, is good business. Local business and professional men and women were urged to avail themselves of the service available through the local bureau, and the speaker outlined generally, the plan of the national organization through its various channels for the benefit of the business world.

Mayor Of Frisco Warned Of Bombing

San Francisco, March 17—(UP)—The home of Mayor Angelo J. Rossi was guarded by police today after the executive had received warning that a bomb plot might be directed against him and his family.
Mayor Rossi said a man telephoned him last night saying he had overheard two men in a hotel lobby discussing a plan to lodge a bomb in the Rossi house "either Wednesday or Thursday."
The Mayor said his chief concern was for the safety of his four grandchildren, who are staying in the house with their mother, Mrs. Eleanor Rossi, daughter of the Rosses.
"I don't place much credence in the report but it is well to be on the safe side," the Mayor said. "The threat that Communists may be behind such an attempt is not so fantastic as it might seem."
Communists have asked him for the use of the civic auditorium for meetings and he has consistently refused, Rossi said.

CIVIL WAR PLOT IN GERMANY IS ALLEGED BY GOVT.

Fascist Headquarters And Branches Raided By Police
Berlin, March 17—(UP)—Prussian police raided Fascist headquarters and branches today on information alleging that the Nazis planned to mobilize their storm battalions for Civil War.
An official Prussian government statement said the raids were intended to frustrate Fascist preparations to grasp power by violence.
The raids were made through all Prussia by the efficient Prussian police force. The Nazis had hoped to control that police force by winning control of the Prussian Diet in the April 24 elections.
The search was ordered by the Prussian Ministry of the Interior. Defeat of the Nazi leader, Adolf Hitler, in the presidential election, and rumors of an attempted Fascist coup published abroad, preceded the raids.
Hitler was defeated Sunday by President Paul Von Hindenburg in a sensational election, with the veteran soldier-statesman piling up a record vote but not a clear majority.
The Paris newspaper Le Matin today published what was reported to be a circular distributed secretly to the Nazis' headquarters at Munich, before the presidential election. The circular outlined plans to seize power in Germany by force of Hitler was beaten for the presidency. The final or runoff election had been set for April 10 with von Hindenburg and Hitler the contestants.
According to the alleged Nazi plans published by Le Matin, the Nazis had a force of 530,000 "storm troops." They were ready to be moved to any part of Germany. The Nazi heavy transport corps was instructed to maintain wagons and trucks in good condition, "ready for action."
Le Matin charged that men trained to handle machine guns would join the Nazi general staff and regional groups immediately. The newspaper alleged that the Nazis were ready to have an important military force in any part of Germany in 48 hours.
The Paris newspaper quoted the alleged secret orders as stating:
"In the event that Hitler is not elected, chiefs of the storm sections shall order their men to remain tranquil and avoid provoking members of the opposition parties. During 1932 Hitler will certainly assume power. If the legal method is impossible, force will be employed in the process."
Le Matin further quoted from the alleged Nazi orders:
"The storm troops reserves will seize various public services including posts, telephones, and telegraphs and will occupy town halls. The technical corps will destroy railway lines leading to military garrisons six hours after they receive their orders."
Denied By Hitler
There were numerous reports during the presidential campaign that the Nazis planned violence. They were denied emphatically by Hitler. "Never at any time has our movement had less occasion to use illegal means," Hitler said in predicting that the voters would return him to power over the veteran Field Marshal Von Hindenburg.
The election passed with few disturbances. There were street clashes between Nazis and Communists but the Berlin police held in "a state of alarm," and police forces of other cities had little to do.
The Prussian government's communique concerning today's raids referred to the brown shirts' "preparations and armaments for civil war which may not be explained by the pretext of anticipating Communist disorders."
"Playing With Fire"
The communique said the Nazis were guilty "of frivolously playing with fire which the Prussian government will no longer tolerate. Prussia is not willing to permit the equipment of an army not only designed to undermine governmental authority but also a constant element of unrest."
The Prussian government announced that police in recent raids in Berlin had found Nazi plans for mobilization of semi-military units in Prussia for the purpose of encircling Berlin.
It also was alleged that the Hitlerites had made arrangements for provisions, transportation, and armament for the Nazi storm detachments.
The communique asserted that Hitler's headquarters at Munich had prepared maps for automobile and motorcycle relays in northern and middle Germany centered around Munich. It was charged that the pass-word for the start of military action was "Grandmother died, Max."

CLUES COLLAPSE IN SEARCH FOR KIDNAPED BABE

It was believed that the Pinkertons and many others no doubt were investigating.
Meanwhile the United Press learned from Salvatore Spitalo, the New York underworld figure appointed almost two weeks ago by Col. Lindbergh as "go-between," that he has about given up hope of hearing from the abductors.
"Either they haven't got the baby," Spitalo said early today, "or else they are in a spot where they can't talk. Even our best connection can be damaged with all this 'beat' and there's nobody crazy enough to take a chance of getting this rap."
Reference to communicating with "a farmer named Paget" presumably referred to Sir Ralph Spencer Paget, who was British Ambassador to Brazil from 1918 to 1920 at the time when Col. Fawcett was making periodical trips into the Brazilian jungle.
The present Ambassador to Brazil is Sir William Seeds, appointed in 1930. It was believed that Rattin might have confused the word "farmer" with "former."

Rattin speaks several Brazilian dialects as well as the difficult Guarany language and believes that this knowledge prevented him from being held captive at the Indian village. He said, however, he never had been bothered by the natives during his 14 years' experience in the jungles.
The local fans motored to Ladd last evening and witnessed the show.
CAMPBELL COMING.

PRIZES VALUED AT $12,500 OFFERED IN SKELGAS CONTEST
W. H. Ware Describes Easy Contest and Announces 300 Prizes Will Be Awarded.
Prizes totaling $12,500 in value will be given away in a contest announced in this issue by the makers of Skelgas and Skelgas dealers throughout the middlewest.
Unlike most contests, where but a few persons share in the prizes, the judges in this Skelgas contest will award at least 300 prizes, and they will all be right here in the middle west, as this is not a national contest. All there is to do, is write a letter—not more than 300 words—on "What Skelgas Would Mean to Me."
Easy to Enter Contest.
The first prize winner will receive all of the following: Beautiful Skelgas Stove K-41, the finest Skelgas stove made, completely equipped with kitchen cutlery spice canisters, a large Skelgas water heater, complete Skelgas installation and 25 cylinders of Skelgas (enough to last the average family five years.) Sixty-four other complete Skelgas installations and stoves will be awarded, as well as 235 other valuable prizes.—Adv.

Bachelor Farmer Found Murdered

Coffeen, Ill., March 17—(UP)—His head crushed, as though beaten in with an ax, Joseph Soletto, 27, was found dead today alongside a road east of here. Authorities said he had been murdered but were unable to ascertain a motive. The body was found by Soletto's father.
Soletto, who lived alone on a small farm near here, hauled milk in this vicinity and his failure to call at his father's farm this morning prompted the latter to search for and find him.
Possibility that Soletto's death might be a result of a milk price war between Missouri and Central Illinois dairy farmers and a St. Louis dairy company, was denied by Sheriff H. E. Saathoff who said that Soletto's employment was in no way connected with the controversy.

JACK FROST
He creeps up like a coyote
That centers 'round a light.
His lantern is the full round moon.
To paint fantastic sights.

And often, yes, when I retire
And raise my window high;
He gives my nose a frosty bite
To let me know he's nigh.

He does not start at once to paint
But waits till all is still;
And then, when no one is in sight,
He works with might and will.

When I arise, I find him gone;
I wish that he would stay.
I'd love to watch him paint the scenes
He leaves for me each day.

Graduate Into the Kindergarten Now

Pittsburgh, March, 17.—(AP)—They're graduating into the kindergarten now.

Two-year-old children are going to school to learn how to eat, play, sleep, hang up their wraps and how to get along with other children and adults.

The first class has been graduated from the Frick Training School for Teachers where for a year this month the experimental class with pre-school kiddies has been held. Director Jean Brigham says the school has met every expectation.

Mothers watch, unobserved, frequently and also learn from the class. Sociologists and psychologists are gathering data, also.

Dinner Tuesday Honored Newlyweds

Miss Rachel Lievan and Mrs. Henry Floto entertained with a dinner Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Floto honoring Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lievan of Hammond, Ind., who were married Saturday at 1 o'clock in that city. There were seven guests at the nicely appointed dinner, Tuesday. Ferns and red tapers were the attractive table decorations. Many Dixon friends will unite in wishing Richard Lievan and his bride much happiness. They will visit in Dixon this week and return to Hammond to make their home, where Mr. Lievan is employed by the Telephone company. Their home there is furnished and ready for occupancy.

CABBAGE AU GRATIN SOUNDS GOOD!

Raw cabbage, boiled cabbage, and corned beef and cabbage have always been eagerly eaten by our lifemates. Now comes a new one, a famous recipe of a famous men's club.
1 recipe white sauce
1 small head cabbage
1 2-oz jar pimientos
1-4 cup buttered crumbs
1-2 cup cheese, diced
Cut the cabbage as for a coarce slaw. Cook in boiling salted water until tender (not more than 10 minutes). Drain. Make a white sauce, then add seasonings and the pimientos (which has been chopped fine). Place layers of cabbage, cheese and sauce in a greased baking dish. Sprinkle buttered crumbs over the top. Brown in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) Makes four to six servings.

SEVERAL ENJOYABLE PARTIES TONIGHT—

There will be several enjoyable parties this evening to break the monotony of Lent, which has been exceptionally quiet. Dorothy Chapter, O. E. S. is sponsoring a delightful dance and card party to-night in Masonic Temple and the Knights of Columbus are sponsoring an old fashioned St. Patrick's day party tonight in St. Anne's Hall.

Beside these two large parties, which will undoubtedly be well attended, there are a number of smaller parties for the evening of St. Patrick's day in Dixon.

Secret Of Happy Marriage Found By Senator Caraway In 'Old-Fashioned' Rules

BY SUE McNAMARA
Washington.—(AP)—Two rules for successful marriage are suggested by Mrs. Hattie Caraway, first woman ever elected United States Senator.

One rule is to realize always that the other partner to the marriage contract has outside interests. The other is for the wife to believe in and respect her husband's judgments and decisions.

Though she holds one of the most advanced and modern positions in official life, Mrs. Caraway has very "old-fashioned" ideas regarding marriage.

"Married couples make a mistake in trying to control every bit of each other's time and personality," she says. "They should have mutual aims and companionship, of course, but they should also respect each other's individuality and freedom."

"A wife who really thinks her husband is always right has smoothed away many marital difficulties. Of course, a woman should marry a man for whom she has respect and admiration in the beginning."

In her Senate office, with mail secretaries and stenographers at work in an adjoining room, Mrs. Caraway occasionally slips back into memory of her 30 years of married life.

Nothing pleases her more than a compliment for the late Senator Thaddeus Caraway. She likes to recall little incidents in his political life.

"He would do a favor for a man he personally disliked if he thought the man deserved it," she says. "He was always impartial and fair in his decisions."

The little black-gowned Senator is showing something of her late husband's firmness in dealing with problems which beset her. She has refused decisively to make any speeches via platform, radio or news reels. She believes it would be in poor taste so soon after her election.

She will not espouse purely "woman's legislation" just because it is such, though she was besieged on taking office by groups of women championing various measures.

Now they have all fallen back, the movie men, the women lobbyists and the politicians, leaving her pretty much alone to concentrate on her work. She is satisfied.

She goes home at night to the big house in Maryland known as the has occupied for years. Two sons, Lord Calvert mansion, which she both in the army, live with her. A faithful Negro servant runs the house.

Sometimes they have hot biscuit the kind the late Senator Caraway liked. And much of the time the talk is of "Dad."

Adults Now Go For Pretty Easter Rabbit

Chicago March 17.—(AP)—There are suspicions in Chicago sweet shops these days that the Easter rabbit "industry" is being supported. Not that the youngsters are going on Peter Rabbit. Far from it, but the candy stores report that they see an increased demand for the type of Easter sweets and novelties that appeal primarily to the adult.

Time was when the serious minded Easter rabbit wore a conservative suit of brown. But that era is past although there are still a few to be had.

The most up-to-date variety of Easter lepus conceals in the Chicago shops is anything but brown this year. They have gone giddy in the matter of color—purple rabbits to yellow rabbits with red ears.

Formerly an Easter egg was simply a day's work for a hen plus a dip in a dye vat. Now in its simplest form it is a candy concoction, skillfully decorated, whose creation would give a hen a nervous breakdown even to contemplate.

One new variety consists of real egg shells filled with chocolate and decorated with portraits in colors—and fancy a dignified Plymouth Rock laying eggs monogrammed to order.

Auxiliary to Veter- ans Met Wednesday

The Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars held a short business meeting last Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Alma Adams. After all the business matters were disposed of, plans were made for the final card party in the series, to be held in G. A. R. hall, March 17th.

The meeting then closed and the members worked on the scrap book, after which a nice luncheon was served.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF by ALICIA HART © 1931 BY NEA SERVICE INC.

Your neck reveals your age more than any feature that you have. Unless you care for it daily, it may either grow flabby and droop or grow skinny and wrinkle.

Nobody wants to be accused of having a neck with skin like crinkly crepe!

If you carried your body in perfect position, your neck would neither sag nor droop. Only about one person in 5,000 has a perfect carriage. These fortunate stand out as individuals with exceptional grace. They carry their heads like prancing horses, and you can't see them without remembering that something they have of grace and beauty.

Since the great majority of folks either settle into their hips, or bend forward or backward, as they should, their necks never get the correct exercise and, of course they grow flabby because of it.

You can't begin too early to exercise your neck and massage it. Don't massage your neck just under the chin. To help that part of your neck grow firm and pretty, you must begin way back at the base of your neck and massage thoroughly across the shoulders, up under the ears and last of all, from the chest up to the chin.

This process stirs circulation and that is necessary to fleshen that sagging chin. Also this succession of slaps and kneadings elicits right at the muscles that hold the neck.

Use a good rich cream to nourish the skin on your neck. Rub it in thoroughly, always using an upward motion, even on the back of your neck. From the sides, rub it backwards and upwards so that all those strained muscles at the back of your head feel it and tingle at the care they are getting. In front use your four fingers to massage upwards from your chest, and when you finish massaging strap up your chin, and tie the strap over your head. This holds the chin in place and does its bit to reform that slipping chin line.

MR. MOSES TO MR. GARNER.

Speaker Garner recently declared that "President Hoover had led the country into the greatest panic in history." Commenting upon which Senator Moses said:
"Recalling the vigor with which Speaker Garner once commented upon the action of the Supreme Court in the estate tax case, I marvel at the moderation with which Mr. Garner has now begun his formal campaign for the Presidency with the single and simple assertion that President Hoover brought on a panic.

"In order to run true to his ancient form, the Speaker should have added the charge that the President brought on the World War, that he loaned billions of dollars of American money to Europe during a Democratic administration, that he directed the riotous expenditures for armaments in foreign countries, that the brought about the unbalanced budgets of other governments, that he made unsafe loans in Latin America, that he is responsible for bolshevism in Russia, that he engineered the eighteen revolutions which have taken place in as many countries, that he created the drought, that he caused the panic in Germany and the economic collapse in Central Europe, that he forced England off the gold standard, that he fomented the Sino-Japanese war, and that he is responsible for the over-production of coffee in Brazil, over-production of copper in Africa, sugar in Cuba, rubber in India, cotton in the South, and wheat in Canada, Australia and the Argentine.

BASEBALL: THE HARBINGER OF SPRING.

Glancing at the sports pages of the newspaper these days, one wonders how one would ever really become aware of the approach of spring if professional baseball should go out of existence.

There are, of course, such signs as blooming flowers, chirping robins, and so on. But there is not, anywhere, anything quite as certain and hopeful as the gathering flood of news stories from the spring training camps in the south and west.

Whether we ever see a big league game or not, we at least get the stories from the training camps; and when we see them we know that winter is about over. And the active, old-time fan, to whom autumn and winter are dull months at best—he comes out of his shell and prepares to start living again. They're playing baseball! Spring is just about here!

A NEW BEGGING RACKET.

The magazine Variety prints a dispatch from Hollywood that is surely one of the oddest of all the news stories produced by the depression. It is a story telling how panhandlers in the film capital have taken to hiring women and children to act as "supporting cast" for beggars.

It works like this: a beggar will engage a woman and child and will take them along as he goes down the street asking for quarters. Men who would ordinarily give him nothing grow soft-hearted when they see his supposed wife and child, and shell out liberally. The beggar, Variety says, can average from $10 to $14 a day in profit, after paying his "assistant" $4 a day.

The chief moral to be drawn from this little tale is: don't give money to street beggars. Make your contribution to a regular charitable organization and let it do the rest.

THE NEW AMENDMENT.

The first constitutional amendment submitted to the states since 1924 has now passed Congress, and awaits action in 48 state capitals. It is the so-called "lame duck" amendment, which would move ahead from March 4 to Jan. 20 the date on which a newly elected president takes office, and from March 4 to Jan. 3 the date on which sessions of Congress begin.

It is up to the voters, now, to see that their state legislators take action on this amendment as soon as possible.

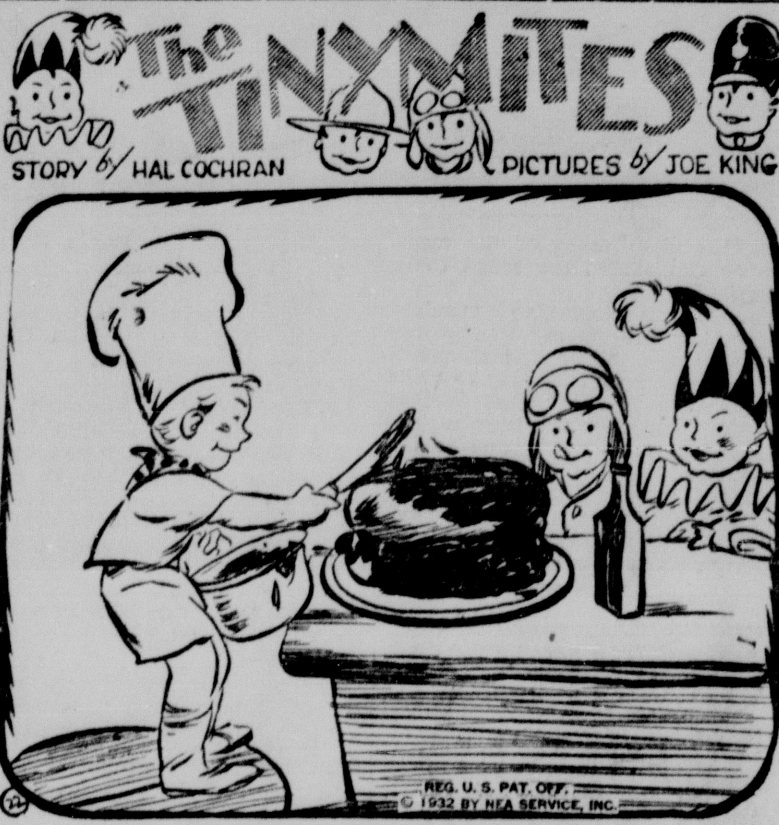

To pass it would mean the elimination of a lot of lost motion in the governmental machinery. There is not one good reason for opposing it, and unless the various state legislatures simply forget to act on it, it is bound to be ratified. The voters must let it be understood that they want action.

Life is a struggle in peace as well as in time of war.—Andre Tardieu, Premier of France.

In my opinion it is the duty of Congress to submit to the people an alternate for the Eighteenth Amendment.—David S. Ingalls, Assistant Secretary of the Navy.

I pay no attention to propaganda letters, without regard to the source.—Senator Simeon W. Fess, Administration Leader in the Senate.

Credit bureaus, through the use of their sense of humor, are still believing that 99 per cent of the people are honest.—Miss Catherine Doody, President, Cleveland Women's Credit Association.

The last small cupcake to jump free, stood on the oven. "Ah, poor me!" it shouted, "I'm afraid I'll fall, in getting to the ground. Will someone kindly lend a hand? I'm tired and I don't like to stand." "Why, sure," exclaimed the Tinies. And the whole bunch gathered round. Wee Duncy held his hand out straight and said, "Come on! Don't hesitate. Walk right into my hand and then you're bound to be all right." The cupcake acted brave and bold. It did just as it had been told. When placed down with the others it said, "Goodness, what a fright!"

The baker smiled at all of this. "Here's something you won't want to miss," said he, "I'm going to frost a cake. Who wants to help a bit? It won't be long till I am through" cause it's not very hard to do. I merely hold the cake and spread fine frosting over it."

"Oh, gee," cried Scouty. "Please let me! I'll be as careful as can be. In fact, I'll frost it all alone, if you will show me how. I'd love to help you with your work and, honestly, I will not shirk." "All right," replied the baker. "Let's get at it, son, right now!"

So Scouty donned a baker's hat and proudly shouted, "Look at that! I look just like a baker and I'll prove I am one, too. I'll put the frosting on the cake and it will make you Tinies ache to have a little piece of it as soon as I am through."

The baker then brought forth a cake and said, "See, son? You simply take this knife and spread the frosting 'round. It isn't hard at all. Be careful and don't waste a bit, or drop some while you're frosting it. It leaves a spot upon the floor when-e'er I let some fall."

A BOOK A DAY
BY BRUCE CATTON

The murder of the Archduke Francis Ferdinand at Serajevo in 1914 was not the work of a single fanatic. It was done by a secret society of fire-eating young Serbians who had been conducting a campaign of assassination and terrorism for more than a decade, and the shot that plunged the world into war simply culminated a long series of violent outbreaks.

The story of this society and its turbulent career is told in "They Call It Patriotism," a tangled, intense sort of historical novel by Bruno Brehm, translated from the German by Margaret Goldsmith. "They Call It Patriotism" begins in 1903, when the Serbian hot-heads launched their campaign to revive the ancient glories of their fatherland by murdering their king and queen and looting the royal palace. It follows their adventures down through the years and gives an exciting, clear-cut picture of the fatal day in Serajevo.

Francis Ferdinand, it appears, was murdered because he was the one man in Austria-Hungary who wanted to give the Servians within the empire a fair break. The hot-heads at Belgrade feared that this would end forever their plan of re-establishing the ancient kingdom—so, inspired by the highest patriotism, they killed him and set the world on fire.

The first part of the book is extremely hard to read, if for no other reason than that the names of all the characters are utterly beyond hope of pronunciation by an American. But once you pass the first few chapters you find that the book holds you. It not only gives you a new glimpse at the background of the world war, but it tells an interesting story as well.

GERMANS REPEAT RAIDS

On March 17, 1918, the War Department announced that total American casualties in killed, missing and wounded were 1856. Germans repeated raids American held sectors of the western front, near Toul and succeeded in occupying a section of trenches for a short time.

A counter attack by American troops succeeded in driving the Germans back. Several prisoners were taken.

Kaiserlautern was bombed by the Allied planes. Several direct hits were reported.

German troops occupied Nikolavoy, and the Russian fleet escaped to Sebastopol.

KILLING COLDS

Can one kill a cold? Can one when feeling a cold "coming on" do anything to prevent its development?

If one were to believe the claims of nostrum venders and "curbstone" prescribers, nothing seems easier. Unfortunately, however, nostrums are ineffective and "curbstone" prescriptions may be given with the best of intentions but are of no use.

Must every cold then run its full course and is there nothing we may do to modify its severity or shorten its duration?

No. There is much we may do. But that is not killing a cold.

To begin with, the tendency of the common cold is to be self limited. Hence the wisdom in the reply of the Old English general practitioner who, when asked what is the best thing to get for a cold, said, "Two dozen soft linen handkerchiefs."

In addition, there are the many tried and useful home remedies.

LIFE STORY OF ERIN'S PATRIOT

A Heritage of Hatred Inspires Boy Scholar to Quit Books for Bullets

By MILTON BRONNER
Dublin, March 17 — This St. Patrick's Day finds a modern hero in Ireland whose fame bids fair to go down in history with that of Erin's patron saint.

He is Eamonn de Valera, modern Ireland's outstanding figure, who has just climaxed 16 years of fighting the British—with both at the and bullets—by his victory at the polls which makes him the new president of the Irish Free State.

There is, probably, more fighting to come — political and otherwise. To De Valera, his election as president of the British controlled Irish Free State is but another step toward the consummation of his aim — a free and independent Republic of Ireland.

He says so. Some Sinn Fein members doubt him.

In personal appearance, he makes no commanding figure such as one might expect in the leader of a great cause. He is lean and awkward, his lantern-jawed face is lined and pinched. He is not quite 45 years old, but he is the human symbol today of Ireland's 700-year fight to break the bonds of British rule.

His life has had all the drama and suspense of a movie thriller.

He has fought and sweated behind Irish guns in a bloody revolution in Dublin's streets. He has been captured by the British and sentenced to death by a firing squad at daybreak.

Hunted as Outlaw
He has been hunted in the remote hills of Ireland as an outlaw, shielded and hidden by Irish patriots in their cabins. He has escaped from an English jail in a drama as colorful as any grand opera plot, in which a singing Irish gardener sang directions to him in Gaelic and pretty Irish girls entertained the warders with their charms until he could make his getaway.

He might have walked right out of the pages of one of Rafael Sabatini's blood and thunder novels. But he had his prosaic start as a young college professor whose hobby was higher mathematics of the most abstruse kind—and whose consuming passion was politics.

Singularly enough, the new president of the Irish Free State was born in New York City, in an old house that is said to have stood on the site of the present Chrysler building. The date was October 14, 1882.

His father was a Spaniard, said to have been a political refugee from Europe, and from him the boy obtained his Spanish name, de Valera (pronounced: devil-eh-rah).

His mother was an Irish girl, lately arrived from the old country in whom had been bred an intense hatred for the English through many generations. She despised the English and from the very outset he was passionately Irish.

Return to Ireland
When de Valera was about six years old his father died and his mother returned to Ireland, taking the child with her. They went to Buncrana in the County of Limrick where De Valera was educated in the common schools and advanced to higher schools. Later he was educated as a teacher.

While a young professor of high mathematics at Dublin he met and married a dark-haired young teacher of Gaelic and Irish history. It is said by a friend of Mrs. de Valera that she had 50 suitors, but young Eamonn persisted until she married him.

His consuming hatred of the English, inherited from his Irish mother, developed when marriage threw him into close contact with a young woman whose duty it had been to teach the history of Ireland's 700-year struggle for independence.

Outlet in Revolt
This soon found an outlet when the revived Irish freedom movement — under the guidance of Arthur Griffith and others — culminated in the bloody Easter Week insurrection of 1916.

At that time, Professor de Valera was engaged at National University in research work in quaternion analysis, a powerful space calculus. But he never finished it. When the call came, he dropped his mathematical instruments and notes and went forth to fight for the new "Irish Republic" just proclaimed by the leaders of the Sinn Fein party.

The Sinn Fein party was merely another movement in Ireland's long struggle for liberty from its English kings and landlords. The history of 700 years is dotted with such moves.

In Gaelic, Sinn Fein means "Our-selves Alone."

Form Irish Army
Griffith crystallized this movement with his newspaper, which became a sort of Irish Bible. As the movement grew, an Irish army known as the Irish volun-

Eamonn de Valera, new president of the Irish Free state, and scenes from his colorful career are shown here. At the left, a splendid portrait-sketch. Top is a scene during street fighting in Ennis, County Clare, when de Valera was arrested by the British. Below, left, Mrs. Charles E. Wheelright, de Valera's mother, who lives in Rochester, N. Y. Below right, de Valera, then an outlaw and fugitive, as he made the speech at Ennis which resulted in his capture by soldiers a few minutes after this picture was taken.

On the fifth day, General Pearse — "to prevent further slaughter of Dublin citizens and in the hope of saving the lives of our followers now surrounded and hopelessly outnumbered"—ordered his Irishmen to surrender.

De Valera gave up his little command and was taken prisoner along with the rest of the leaders. On April 30, he was sentenced to death by shooting.

He heard his fate calmly and prepared to die before a British firing squad, as had been the case with so many other Irish revolutionary leaders.

But Eamonn de Valera was not destined to die then. Fate, always mysterious and inscrutable, had another destiny in store for him. Instead of becoming merely another nameless martyr to the revolution, he was destined to become the greatest living hero of the Irish in the years to come.

TOMORROW—A singing garden-er, a pretty maid, and a captive de Valera await guards of England's famous prison.

OBITUARY

MRS. WESLEY STEWARD
(Contributed)

Mary Katherine Barnett was born in Piqua, Ohio, April 1, 1852. Her life came to a tragic close at St. Petersburg, Fla., March 4th, 1932. She came to Illinois in 1871 and on April 16th, 1884 was married to Wesley Steward, a pioneer and founder of the town which bears his name and in which the remainder of her long life was spent.

Always a brilliant student, she graduated from the Piqua High School in the class of 1870. She had the honor of being valedictorian and the standard she set then has always been kept. This keenness of intellect remained with her to the very last days of her life. Seldom indeed do we find one of four score years fortunate enough to possess the wonderful memory, the alertness of mind which was hers. She was a master-hand at spelling, over which she never lost her hold.

However, her fine mentality was not her only extraordinary quality. In the most unusual of combinations, her perfection of mind was evenly matched with her marvelous physical vigor. Though of distinguished bearing, with beautiful white hair, she had the agility of youth. So nimble and quick was she as to amaze everyone who knew her.

Refinement and culture made up the background of her early life and training. In the record of her life this was reflected, was clearly apparent. True to the dictates of a Puritan conscience she kept close within the boundaries of integrity and high ideals. We look back with respect and affection upon her gentle ways her peaceful spirit her steadfast honesty.

Systematic neat and methodical, she was skilled in the arts of the fireside. As a cook she was unexcelled and her needlework was as beautifully done at eighty years as at eighteen. Work well done was a rule of her life and with no deviation she lived it.

Her companionship with Bertha Steward, an equally wonderful woman, was a rare and beautiful thing. For the twenty years since the death of Mr. Steward they have been all in all to each other. Together in life, together in death, the Maker has willed it so.

Many are they who mourn for them both. We are lonely and sad because they have been taken away. Away from the family, from the dear friends of a lifetime, from their neighbors in the town they loved so well. All will miss them, their wide-spread kindness, their unfailing interest, their staunch allegiance to the cause of good. We grieve to think of that night in St. Petersburg. Two more good lives added to the cruel toll of the automobile. We could have wished for them a peaceful ending, but we could not have our way. So we cherish the rich and wonderful memories. We pay reverent tribute to them: the good they did will never die.

Mrs. Steward is survived by her sister, Mrs. Mattie L. Chappel of Pueblo, Colo., her sister-in-law, Mrs. Frank Barnett of Rochelle, her nephew, M. D. Barnett, also of Rochelle, her nieces, Mrs. R. Simmons of Monmouth and Mrs. M. W. Raynass of Steward. There are other nieces and nephews in Ohio, Michigan, New York, Missouri, and Colorado.

Services were held for Mrs. Steward and Miss Bertha Steward, whose death resulted from the same accident, in St. Petersburg, Fla., on March 6th, conducted by Rev. F. W. Nazarene, well known here. Then they were brought to their old home in Steward, where the final services were held on Wednesday, March 9th, by Rev. Job Moore, of the Steward Methodist church, who spoke so feelingly and well of the loss we all sustain. From this place so dear to them they were taken to lie together in their last rest in the Steward cemetery.

BERTHA IONE STEWARD

Bertha Ione Steward was born in Steward, Illinois, June 1, 1863. Her mother was Julia Short Steward, sister of Susan Short May, of Rochelle. Her father was Wesley Steward, owner of a large tract of land on a part of which the town of Steward was built. When Bertha was a little girl her mother died and she came to Rochelle to live with her aunt for a few years. After her father's second marriage she returned to Steward, but for several years attended the school at Rochelle.

She received her high school education in Aurora, where she developed a taste for English literature, which grew with the years. Later in her life she studied shorthand and typing and held several positions in Chicago. She studied painting also and showed much talent in this art. Whatever she set her hand to, that she did well, whether it was painting, embroidery, sewing or cooking. Love of good workmanship was a marked trait of her character.

For many years family duties and her own ill health kept her at home in Steward. Then came a period of western travel with her father and Mrs. Steward. She found Arizona delightful and spent many winters there. After the death of her father, she continued to travel with Mrs. Steward to warmer climates, sometimes to California, sometimes to Florida. She made two distant trips by herself, spending one winter in Ecuador, South America, as guest of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Blunt, one in Cuba, where she was also the guest of the Blunts. She made one trip to Europe in company with three friends. The outbreak of the World War found them in England from whence they made a hasty exit to the United States.

Bertha Steward's correspondence was wide and her letters always joyfully received. Whether from Steward, Paris or Quinto they were full of keen observation, witty comments and light touches of person narrative.

The children of the community were her special interest. She was their play companion, helpful friend and enthusiastic historian. Many a grown woman remembers fondly some dainty garment fashioned by her skillful fingers in the days when tucks, insertion and da-frills were the standard of beauty. Another major interest with her was her farm tenants. She rejoiced in their success, she admired their ability, she knew them as friends. Her charities were numerous and her gifts unadvised. Her friendship was prized for vigor and loyalty. Her well known frankness seldom offended. Her unselfishness was strongly manifested when, after she had received her own fatal but as yet unperceived injuries, she declared that she was "all right" and that attention centered on Mrs. Steward.

She died quietly and without realization of what had happened her, Friday evening, February 19th, in Mound Park Hospital, St. Petersburg, Florida.

ROCK FALLS WON, POLO LOST FIRST GAMES LAST EVE

Former Surprised Rock Island, Favorites For Sectional

Chicago, Mar. 17.—(AP)—With two sectional favorites already victims of upsets, the chase for places in the Illinois high school basketball championship tournament was resumed today.

Johnston City, often a contender in the finals, last night lost a bitterly contested struggle 8 to 4, to Benton, at Johnston City, and Rock Island, another favorite, was out of the way, having been eliminated by Rock Falls 22 to 13, at Moline.

The most spectacular scoring effort was accomplished by Lincoln, which walloped Ashland, the Jacksonville district champion, 48 to 8, at Springfield. Springfield also won impressively, 36 to 22 over Pittsfield.

In the other game at Johnston City, East St. Louis, the fortune-favored runner-up team, was eliminated by Metropolis, 23 to 19, and in the second contest at Moline, Kewanee shot well enough to defeat Polo 21 to 14. Just before Maquon eliminated East Peoria, Wenona easily eliminated Monmouth, 28 to 12, at Peoria.

Sycamore Wins
Dundee and Sycamore were successful in their first rounders at Joliet, the former defeating Little Harlem of Rockford, 27 to 22, while Sycamore, one of the tournament favorites, just managed to eliminate Lockport, 16 to 14. Fairmount, trimmed Thawville, the smallest district winner, 19 to 16, at Danville, while Rantoul moved on by defeating Normal, 22 to 17.

Urbana and Monticello, the latter ranked as one of the most powerful teams in its section, advanced to the semi-finals at Mattoon. Urbana defeated Sullivan, 33 to 29, and Monticello romped over Mattoon, 30 to 15. At Salem, Vandalia eliminated Carlinville 25 to 19, and Collinsville defeated Effingham 27 to 20.

RESULTS LAST NIGHT

At Danville: Fairmount 19; Thawville 16.
Rantoul 22; Normal 17.

Minnesota Alumni Coaches Selected

Minneapolis, March 17.—(AP)—Three Gopher football immortals, who played on Minnesota's last Western Conference championship team, back in 1915, have been recalled to the campus to serve their alma mater in a coaching capacity. The triumvirate was completed yesterday when George Hauser came home from Ohio State University to become line coach and assistant to B. W. Bierman, head coach.

Serving with Bierman and Hauser will be Bert Baston, All-America end. Bierman was captain of the 1915 team which won six games and tied with Illinois. Bierman played in the backfield. Hauser at tackle and Baston at end. The late Walter Camp named Baston as left end on his All-America team. The famed Wynnan-to-Baston pass still is considered one of the most effective scoring plays in Minnesota history.

Sports Parade

BY HENRY MCLEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, March 17.—(UP)—There comes a time in every man's life when he's got to catch up with his needlework. Consider me. I am behind 373 stitches on my design for a sofa pillow, which depicts in the humanistic manner a pine cone just deprived of its young, coming over the mountain like Kate Smith.

I am dropping stitches in my cubicle, which sets high over the East river and commands a sweeping view of Queensboro, when a large noise wafts itself up to me. This noise has a semblance of a huzzah, a whoopla, a hooray and a whoopee. I drop my embroidery. I know what it is. The babe has signed! The Babe and Colonel Jake have signed the Treaty of St. Petersburg.

Well, I am not one to get excited and poke my head out of the window every time there is a rainbow looping over Brooklyn, but I see down in 42nd street a lot of people carrying on as if they had just got married and were getting rice some thrown at them, or as if this was the Fourth of July and somebody had set off a firecracker under the marshal of the Fourth of July parade.

Confronted with all this hilarity in the streets below, all this hurrying of ticker tape, all this shouting and howling, I slumped down the window and went back, heart heavy, to my typewriter, and here I am.

Down below, friends, they are celebrating because Babe Ruth will be batting out of right field when the Yankees cut this Florida grapefruit business and get up here in New York and start playing baseball.

But as for me, I am inclined to lay my weary head down on my desk and sigh for a young person with bulging biceps, named George Selkirk. Please don't get him mixed up with Alexander Selkirk.

George, a young man from Joizy (New Joizy) has been flagging flies for the Yanks while Mister Ruth has been busy bustin' 'em down the fairway, pitchin' 'em to the pin and a-poutin' away at Colonel Jake.

George Selkirk has been standing out there in right field in St. Petersburg, sweating under that Florida sun, and dreaming dreams. Dreams that said to him—in the reverie that comes to a man who has to play right field under a Florida sun—that said to him, George you're hot stuff. They sent you up there to bat for Ruth, pal, and what did you do? A triple, a double, and a single. And a catch that Speaker'd been proud of. George, just think how you'll feel when you step out there in the Stadium, with 30,000 folks a-lookin' on. And you a taking the place of the mighty Babe.

George Selkirk probably doesn't like to think about those dreams now. Even though he made a triple, a double and a single, The Babe is in the right field. George Selkirk, the Joizy rookie, who most certainly has been able to smack a ball when he saw one, must have been a crestfallen critter when word came that Mister Ruth had broken down, and in these days of economic depression, accepted $75,000 to chase balls and bat them.

There are no objections from this department about what Mister Ruth receives in the way of salary. Mister Ruth is not to blame for the emotional disturbances which occur in the breast of Mister George Selkirk. But anyway, I feel sorry for the man. I know what it is to have your dreams go haywire. I once dreamed an uncle of mine in Australia left me a $100 and a house-broken kangaroo.

35 Reported For H. S. Track Team

BY DON HILLIKER
Thirty-five candidates reported to Coach A. C. Bowers Tuesday evening for the issuance of track and field equipment at the high school. The first practice was conducted yesterday afternoon with calisthenics and work on the ropes and rings in the gymnasium the most popular part of the time. This will continue until the athletic field becomes ready for use.

Although hard hit by graduation, the squad is a promising one this season. Plowman, Wolford, Weinman, Abbott, Kennedy and Swigle were strong point-winners who will be absent this year. Returning men from the 1931 squad are Ogan, Talley, Plannigan, Padgett, Williams and Strong.

The first meet scheduled for the spring season is the annual interclass affair scheduled for April 18, 19, 20. On April 26, Oregon offers the first outside competition.

At San Francisco—Missions (PC) 2; Pittsburgh (N) 1 (10 innings).
At Oakland, Cal. —Detroit (A) 7; Oakland (PC) 1.

Oakland, Cal. —A young pitcher named Izzy Goldstein, late of New York, turned in another of his capable mound performances yesterday, pitching the last four innings of a game in which the Detroit Tigers defeated Oakland 7 to 1. He showed composure under fire by retiring the coast leaguers without a run in the sixth after two singles and a pass had filled the bases. He allowed only one other hit.

Los Angeles —The New York Giants have been kidding J. Francis Hogan about his excess weight. Ordered to catch a full game yesterday to take out extra poundage, and admonished as well to "stop crashing into the grandstand," Hogan replied by getting two bases on an infield hit and winning the ball game with it as well. He snuck a hard drive off Stanley Hack's shins, to bring Verge home with the winning run and was awarded second base by the umpire when the ball rolled among some of the spare players along the sidelines.

San Antonio, Tex. —Nineteen members of the Chicago White Sox were down for two bus rides today with a baseball game with the University of Texas, sandwiched in between.

The coldest was the first outside of intracamp games, for the Sox and Manager Lew Fonseca had nominated a mixture of recruits and veterans to start. Those that were named included: Outfielders, Anderson, Poser and Campbell, infielders, Blue, Hayes, Cissell and Appling, Catcher, Jolley, and pitchers, Apthous Thomas, Bump Hadley and Joe Bartulis.

Los Angeles —Having fared second best in an eight game series with the New York Giants, the Chicago Cubs today continued their experimenting against the Portland club of the Pacific Coast League. The set against the Giants revealed that the younger pitchers have made headway in conditioning for the National League race, and that the veterans, Charlie Root and Pat Malone, particularly, have a lot to do before they are all ready for the grind.

The work of the young infielders, Stanley Hack and Billy Herman, however, has been encouraging.

St. Petersburg, Fla. —Bill McKechnie of the Braves at last has something to smile about. Wally Berger has come out of his batting slump and Bill Walters, trying out with the Tribesmen a second time is showing some good stuff at third base.

Savannah, Ga. —It is beginning to look like the third base position on Shono Collins' Red Sox nine will be decided with the bat. McManus, Miller and the rookie Mudloff have all been showing a fine brand of ball in the hot corner.

Biloxi, Miss. —The Washington Senators count a new regular on the pitching staff today because of Monte Weaver's three hitless, runless innings against the Baltimore Orioles yesterday at Gulfport.

New Orleans, La. —Only powerful hitting saved the Cleveland Indians from a defeat yesterday at the hands of the New Orleans Pelicans.

Eddie Montague's home run and Earl Averill's triple were among the Tribe's 11 hits which gave them 7 runs to the Pelicans' 6.

DODGERS EATING THEMSELVES INTO REAL CONDITION

Waite Hoyt's Diet Has Spread Throughout Brooklyn Camp

BY ALAN GOULD

Associated Press Sports Editor
Clearwater, Fla., Mar. 17.—(AP)—Baseball history is crowded with the table-sitting achievements of players who have eaten themselves right out of the big leagues. Among this year's rapidly reforming cast of Brooklyn Dodgers, the process is being reversed, with the result that a curious collection of cast offs is eating its way back into condition and threatening to disrupt the National League pennant race.

This renaissance was bound to follow the passing of the old warrior, Uncle Wilbert Robinson, and the succession to leadership of Professor Max Carey. Calisthenics, salary cuts, the big deal with Cincinnati and, finally, regulation of the commissary department, all have contributed to the most interesting shake-up in recent big league history.

Carey credits the so-called Waite Hoyt diet for his preliminary success in reducing waist line and avoiding discards by the Athletics and the American League. Hoyt joined Brooklyn with a promise to behave and win 20 ball games. He reported in the best condition of years, minus 30 pounds of excess weight, and filled with the zeal of a missionary.

Spreads Through Camp
With the veteran pitcher as an example and preacher of the dietary doctrine, Carey persuaded heavyweights like Hack Wilson, Dizzy Vance and Babe Phelps to adopt Hoyt's eating gospel. Like the calisthenics, the diet's popularity has spread throughout the camp and even the correspondents are reducing to a limited extent.

"They may kid us all they want to," says Carey, "but take my word for it that this club will be in condition to play better ball than ever. This is especially true of our veterans."

The only casualty now is Del Bissonette, first sacker, who left ankle is in a cast as a result of a pulled tendon. Bissonette probably will not be in shape to start the season, though he should be all right within five weeks. Meanwhile Carey may juggle the two hard-hitting players he got from the Reds by assigning Joe Stripp to first base and Tony Cuccinello to third with Glenn Wright at short and Mickey Finn on second. With Bissonette in shape, however, the lineup calls for Cuccinello at second, and Stripp on third base. Pats and Slade are in reserve.

Has Faith in Hack
Babe Herman is gone but Carey believes this lost punch and color will be offset by Hack Wilson. The ex-Cub cloutier will work with Lefty O'Doul and John Frederick in the outfield, unless like Boone's hitting continues too valuable to be omitted.

Carey's pitching strength represents an embarrassment of riches. He and his coaches, Casey Stengel and Otto Miller, have been staying awake late of night trying to pick the nine best men from an assortment of 16 pitchers. Vance, Hoyt and Watson Clark top the list. Of the Hartford recruits Van Mungo and Arthur Jones, the youngest two twirlers in camp, appear best. Old Jack Quinn, Lefty Heilmach and Babe Phelps will stay. That leaves one vacant spot to be filled from pitchers like Joe Shlaute, Hollis Thurston, Phil Galloway, Austin Moore, Clyde Day and others.

Al Lopez and Clyde Sukeforth, obtained from the Reds, will handle the backstopping with some aid from Val Picinich.

A camp follower put it: "This club can do one of three things; finishing first, fifth or wind up plucking daisies."

RUTH IS UNDER CONTRACT FOR A SINGLE YEAR

Fears Of Yank Owner Regarding Babe's Legs Indicated
St. Petersburg, Fla., Mar. 17 (AP)—Babe Ruth today is working for the —For the first time in ten years old firm of Yankees under a one-year contract.

It calls for $75,000 representing a 6 per cent cut of $5,000 but the depression, relatively has not hit the homerun king more than a mild tap in the region of the bank roll.

Among baseball men, the most significant feature of the Ruth situation is the Yankee management's entire unwillingness to risk more than one season's pay on the chances of the Babe striking near the peak in his well known speciality.

His general health and condition never have appeared better; but his legs, most observers agree, show unmistakably the strain of 18 years in the major leagues.

His batting eyes were none too sharp in his first exhibition game yesterday, when he failed to get a hit in six tries, and was called out twice on strikes, with Ed Brandt in the box for the Braves. But no fears are felt for Ruth's hitting prowess. He will be blasting 'em, they say, until they move him up to the plate in a wheel chair.

Ruth feels he is good for at least two or three years more of regular work. He may be ready to take it easier after rounding out 20 years, which he considers his real goal for active play.

Meanwhile, for playing 150 ball games, more or less, Ruth will get a presidential salary for 1932. Roughly speaking, he will be paid around $500 for each afternoon's work or relaxation of the regular American League season.

New Manchurian Regime Tottering

BULLETIN
Shanghai, Friday, March 18.—(AP)—Reports from Manchuria to the Kuomintang (Chinese) News Agency today said 100,000 Chinese volunteers were marching on Mukden from three directions, destroying the flag of the new Manchurian state at all the villages along the way and hoisting in its place the Chinese national emblem.

Tokyo, Mar. 17.—(AP)—The brand new dictatorial government of the dapper young Henry Pu-Yi, heir of the ancient Manchurian emperors, was reported tottering in Manchuria by Japanese press dispatches today, over the question of General Ma Chan-Shan, who has been named its War Minister.

Revolts which have occurred at Tachei and Manchuli, in General Ma's province of Heilungkiang, have caused the former defender of Tsitsihar to rush home from the new dictatorial court at Chang Chun, reports to the Rengo News Agency said, breaking away in the midst of the triumphant ceremonies surrounding the Pu-Yi inauguration.

Several groups of Chinese troops in Heilungkiang refused to celebrate the establishment of the Pu-Yi government and rose up against General Ma himself, declining to transfer their allegiance.

CHICAGO-OWNED HORSE ENTERED IN BRITISH RACE

Is Among Thirteen American Horses In Steeplechase

Liverpool, England, Mar. 17 (AP)—Thirty seven horses will start tomorrow the long journey over the four and one-half mile course at Aintree known as the Grand National.

Not all will finish, but for the horse and rider that successfully jump the 32 difficult obstacles of water, brush and stone and then manage to show the way past the judges' stand, there await fame and riches.

Thirteen American-owned horses have been named for the race, the blue ribbon of steeplechase events, first run in 1839. Only one—Sea Soldier—is American bred. He is a son of Man o' War, and is entered in the name of A. H. Niblack backed by a syndicate of ten wealthy Chicago sportsmen.

Sea Soldier is an outsider in the official betting at the Victoria Club being quoted at 50 to 1. Only one American-bred horse, Rubio, ever won the race and he was English owned.

Mrs. C. S. Bird Jr.'s Heartbreak Hill is the most highly favored of the foreign group to repeat the American-owned triumphs of Seaphen (Laddie) Sanford, Sergeant Murphy in 1923 and A. Charles Schwartz's Jack Horner in 1926. Mrs. Bird's Irish-bred jumper has climbed to the position of second choice at 11 to 1.

C. R. Taylor's Grackle, winner of the event last year, rules the favorite at odds of 8 to 1, but here again history is against the chances of the 10-year-old jumper repeating. Lottery, winner of the first Grand National, was the only horse ever successful in winning the race two consecutive years. Twelve others won the event twice, but a year or more intervened before their second victories.

Grackle, the high weight of the field with 175 pounds a winner in 1929, is third favorite at 100 to 7 in the callovers. Mrs. M. A. Gemmell's star also finished second to Grackle last year.

Dusty Foot, hope of John Whitney, the only other American horse quoted in the official betting is held at 28 to 1.

CHICAGOANS TO LISTEN
Chicago, Mar. 17.—Ten Chicagoans will arise bright and early tomorrow and hurry to the loop and listen to a radio broadcast of the running of the Grand National steeplechase at Aintree, England, in which their star, Sea Soldier, is entered.

Sea Soldier, a son of Man o' War was entered by the Mill Creek stable, of which Mrs. R. R. McCormick, Men L. Behr, D. L. Ryerson, Noble B. Judah, Wolcott Blair, E. A. Cudahy, Jr., R. J. Thorne, V. C. Spaulding, Chas. F. Glone and A. H. Niblack are the joint owners.

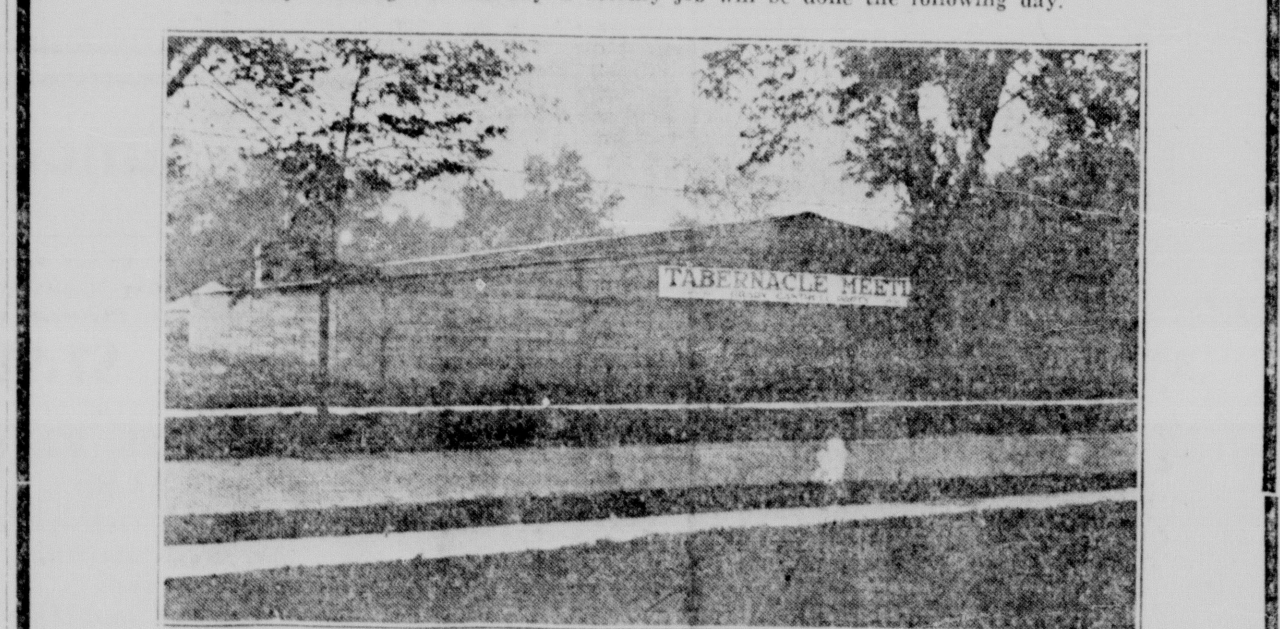

An especially powerful receiving set has been installed in Niblack's office and the stable owners will be present by 3:45 A. M. to listen. The broadcast is scheduled for 9 o'clock Chicago time.

Montana School of Mines gave a six-week "prospector's course" this winter, that attracted men from many walks of life, including a blacksmith, an embalmer and a clairvoyant.

Why FAT Piles Up
Modern science has discovered a great cause. A certain gland grows weak, usually after 30. Then food which once fed energy goes largely to fat. People slow down and gain weight. Doctors, the world over, now combat that cause. People who consult them are keeping slender now.
The factor they use is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets, at small cost. People have used them for 24 years—millions of boxes of them. In almost every circle you see the results.
No starvation is advised. Marmola supplies the factor needed to turn food to vim. As the extra fat goes, new energy returns. Go learn what Marmola means to you. At all druggists—$1.

MISSIONARIES MAY PRESENT INDIAN'S CAUSE

Dixon Methodists Hope
To Hear Mr. and Mrs.
Gordon Halstead

Dr. Gilbert Stansell, pastor of the First Methodist church of this city has received the following letter from Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Halstead, two very able missionaries in India and supported by the Dixon church. The letter tells its own story, a story in which many of the Dixon Methodists are intensely interested.

En route
Calcutta to Rangoon,
Jan. 29th, 1932.

Dear Friends:
We are en route to America, acting on government orders. In this letter I do not intend to go into the details of these orders, and the reasons why they were given to us. It is difficult to get letters out of India these days, and if we were to attempt to write them, it would be setting myself a perfectly vain task, for my letter would never reach you.

Suffice it to say, until we can tell you everything in person, that India is passing through a period of intense humiliation and disgrace at the hands of a foreign power that has lost all sense of justice and rightness. We have passed a moral judgment on that power and its answer was exile from the land and people that we have come to love so much. It is not more than our own. We did not attempt to take a part in politics, other than that dictated by our religious convictions. We fully realized that we were under a pledge to the existing government, but we just as fully realized our pledge to "that moral power higher than any state. If we have, in the opinion of an empire based on a huge immorality broken one pledge, we have been faithful to the higher and nobler pledge.

We came to India, not as representatives, merely, of America and the west, but of a religion that preaches the Gospel of Universal Brotherhood, which means universal equality of opportunity for all men. We have believed the people of India to be our brothers and sisters and we have desired for them all that we have ourselves. We have not only desired, but we have transmitted that desire into action through a very positive sort. We are of a very positive sort. We are of a very positive sort. We are of a very positive sort.

As regards our relationship with the Mission and the College, we revere only one thing—that in India's darkest hour, when her fair head has been plunged into the mud by physically more powerful men, there have been practically no missionaries with the courage and the love to cry a halt to the whole barbaric business. Only an omphalos of silence reigns. Future historians of India will register another bankruptcy of organized Christianity, such as that seen in the Great War. If there is to be a place for missionaries and mission work in the free India that is about to be born, it shall not be because of the majority that deserted India when the struggle became dangerous, but because of those few idealists who dared to risk all they had and plunged straight into the heart of the struggle.

We look forward eagerly to opportunities of presenting to you what has become a driving passion with us—India's case for Swaraj—freedom.

Our boat lands at San Francisco on March 16th.

Please forgive this short and sketchy letter, but time will do things right for you and you shall come to understand.

Your sincere friends,
Gordon and Helen Halstead

Sidelights In News In Capital Of United States

By The United Press
Washington, March 17.—Theodore Joslin, who "used to be a newspaperman himself," yesterday celebrated his first year as press relations secretary to President Hoover.

Joslin succeeded George Akerson, now an executive in a motion picture organization.

"It's a hard life," he commented at the end of the first year, but he likes it.

For years he was Washington correspondent of the Boston Transcript. He answered the call when the President invited him to take over the arduous and frequently thankless task of go-between for Mr. Hoover and the press. His job is to answer all questions—and they are countless—from reporters about anything under the sun relating to the President or the Administration.

The White House of late has been the rendezvous of numerous film stars, male and female, much to the delight of the attaches.

Billie Dove came in one day last week to shake hands with the President.

"He looked just grand," Miss Dove said as she posed for photographers outside. So did she.

Robert Woods Bliss, Ambassador to Argentina, was in the lobby at the time, after bidding the President good-bye. He sailed for Europe on a round-about trip to Buenos Aires the next day.

The reporters with one exception abandoned the diplomat to surround the screen star. Bliss himself, intrigued, moved to a window to watch Miss Dove pose for her picture, and went on his way uncomplaining at the neglect.

Conrad Nagel was in a day or so later to invite the President to be the guest of the film stars at Hollywood at the opening of the Olympic games next July.

Word got about that the actor was in the lobby waiting his turn. Stenographers brushed their eyebrows, patted their hair and strolled through slowly to the drinking fountain, to gaze under lowered eyelids at their idol. He took it with practiced unconcern.

The Town Turned Out in Glad Array; For It Was Broadway's Circus Day When Ziegfeld's Girls Were Glorified—And Most Almighty Cute, Beside!

BY GILBERT SCWAN
NEA Service Writer

New York—For several years, Mons. Flo Ziegfeld has glorified the American sidewalk whenever he produced a new show.

The show that is staged just outside his expansive and expensive lobby is quite as fascinating as any to be found inside his ultra-modernistic theater. Somewhere between Hollywood openings and a circus lot may be found the Ziegfeld formula.

In the instance of his latest, titled "Hot Cha," kleigs that would have shamed the Hollywood hills glared down on the follies of Sixth Avenue.

Autograph hunters were out in predatory hordes; ladies in ermine and gents in vermin pushed each other off the curbstone society editors in top-hats ran about to gather the names of celebs; in depression times, select seats were selling at $16.50 per each and limelight hunters were demanding them in blocks. Snooty Blue Book folk, accustomed to the first eight rows, were struggling for a chance to be seen there at all, and were to be noted sneaking to balcony locations.

At such occasions, Broadway admits its weakness for publicity—or, if you prefer, notoriety. And the shrewd Mons. Ziegfeld, being a showman, gives all and sundry an opportunity to put on an act. Flashlights explode against the competitive flood lights; movie folk and stage folk and society folk are halted with a "Hold that just a minute, mister" command of the camera men.

One of the following morning the list of names "of those present" is as conglomerate a mixture of blue blood, red blood and anemia as the modern test tubes can produce.

But the same M. Ziegfeld has never been known to glorify the American libretto. Once, perhaps by accident, "Whoopee" happened to have as its parent a fair farce, and so the story held up.

So, in spite of the sidewalk mob fighting for an autograph or a glimpse; in spite of the kleigs and the fan-fare, "Hot Cha" turned out to be a music show dressed by libretto and blessed by showmanship. Ur-ban and made the sets and Bobby Connelly had done right by the three-glorified girls (some of them have been in three productions, at any rate) and Brown and Henderson had turned out tunes with such gaggy titles as "Jose Can You See."

And half of Hollywood, arrived in Broadway for reasons, best known to the cinema moguls, appeared to be in the cast. There was Buddy Rogers, being as juvenile as only Rogers can be; Lupe Velez, known in emotional circles as "loop the Lupe" because of the various turn-overs of the heat she is alleged to have occasioned and being better upon the stage than ever she was on the screen; there was Bert Lahr, an ogling clown into whose crossed eyes more than a mote of smut has been blown; there was in fact, almost everything except a story.

And, as usual, each calf bore the brand of Ziegfeld.

But whatever may be the fate of any Ziegfeld production, Broadway reviews his new attractions with the same interest we small town lads once displayed in the coming of a circus. Even as I rose at dawn to watch the stake drivers and the wagon men, the Manhattan mob misses its dinner to get a place on the sidewalk and count the chin-chillas and sables as they exit from Rolls Royce and taxicabs.

Significant of changing times in the theater, the "one-dollar top" show has reappeared on Broadway. Outside of the movie palaces, no stage attraction has played to such slashed fees since the war. Carl Reed, an impresario of wide experience, conceived the idea of reviving the old thrillers, such as "The Round-Up," "The Virginian," and "The gun of the Golden West." A stock company, with well known performers starred, is used.

Pauline Frederick, cast in an unsuccessful play for her stage "come-back," now plans to direct a forthcoming production. Flo Ziegfeld lay ill with grippe, running a 103 fever on the night his show opened. "Marching By," newest music show arrived, was rated as far too old-fashioned for these times and is expected to close soon. "Money in the Air," a would-be mystery play is another short lived newcomer.

IRISH HONORED PATRON SAINT IN MANY WAYS

While New President Announced Plan For Union Of People

Dublin, March 17.—(AP)—The wearing of the green had a double significance in Erin today: It was the 1500th anniversary of St. Patrick's landing and it brought a new plan for union of the north and south of Ireland.

Eamon de Valera, new President of the Free State, announced last night, on the eve of the St. Patrick's Day celebrations, a four-point program for his administration, one point of which was an eventual merger of the Free State and Ulster governments, age-old division of Irish affairs.

Other points were abolition of the oath of allegiance to King George and of the more than $10,000,000 a year in land annuities paid to the British government, as well as suspension of the military courts set up by the Cosgrave regime to try Irishmen for offenses against the government.

The center of the day's ceremonies in honor of St. Patrick today was at Saul, in County Down, where a giant statue of the saint is to be erected immediately on the mountain of Slieve Willin, 400 feet above the shore where he landed in 32 A. D. to begin his missionary work.

There is also to be a great altar on the site, which commands a magnificent view of the Irish Sea and the Mourne mountains. The statue will be visible for many miles, looking toward memories of Slieve Donard on the south, Strangford Lough and even far-away Slieve Donard in County antrim, on the north.

The ancient custom of "drowning the shamrock" was restricted today to homes only. The public houses were closed again this year, as they have been on St. Patrick's Day for many years.

PLAN RIDICULED
Belfast, Northern Ireland, March 17.—(AP)—Ulster newspapers expressed scorn today for the outline of policies announced by President Eamon de Valera of the Irish Free State, in which de Valera included a plan for bringing about a union of northern and southern Ireland.

Dempsey Is Found To Blame For Loss

Chicago, March 16.—(AP)—Jack Dempsey, former world's heavyweight champion, was held responsible for approximately $100,000 in expenses incurred by the Chicago Coliseum Club in 1926 when he repudiated a contract, to fight Harry Wills, Negro challenger, in a ruling handed down today by the Appellate Court.

The opinion, delivered by Judge Francis Wilson, reversed a judgment in the Circuit Court and remanded the case for a new trial.

Suit for $500,000 was brought against Dempsey, who was champion at the time, by the Coliseum Club, which alleges Dempsey caused the club great loss by his failure to go through with the contract. Judge Sterling H. Pomeroy, in the Circuit Court last year, ordered the jury to bring in a directed verdict, finding Dempsey not guilty.

"A New Commandment"

(Read John 13:31-35.)

This "new commandment" is for those who have reached the summit have learned to love their enemies, and have crossed "the great divide." It is the new rule of life which can be followed only by those from whom every vestige of hatred has been eradicated. It is the "magna carta" of the new humanity; the law of life. We come to it by stages of spiritual progression. Thus, in our fellowship of prayer, we have journeyed together along the pathway of Christian discipleship. Are we ready to accept the "new commandment"? Is love now, in sincere actuality "the law of life" for us? If so, we need never fear hereafter lest the Radiance depart. Henceforward we ourselves are Radiant, with the Radiance which is of God. Christ in us is the hope of glory.

Prayer: We pray, O Christ, that Thy Love which is in our hearts may be shed abroad from our hearts into the lives of men, near and far. If it be Thy will that we may serve as beacons of a better day, help us to radiate Thy Light so clearly that men may glorify Thee and learn to trust the power of Love in all the affairs of their lives; to the end that strife and bitterness may disappear from the earth, and that Thy Spirit may prevail. Amen.

TROOP 60 HONOR COURT

Troop No. 60, Boy Scouts of America held a very impressive Court of honor Tuesday evening at their meeting place in the guild rooms of St. Luke's Episcopal church. A large number of parents and friends were in attendance at the fine program. The room was attractively decorated in Scout like fashion and an excellent array of handicraft was on exhibition.

Scoutmaster Virgil Carrier was chairman of the program which opened with demonstration in Scout-craft under the direction of Assistant Scoutmaster Chandler Sterling.

There was a demonstration of signaling, knot tying by Edward Whitcomb, fire by friction by Robert McCrystal, fire by flint and steel by Harold Goeke. Scoutmaster Carrier was master of ceremonies for the Court of Honor. Tenderfoot award was made to James Vader, second class to James Naylor, Robert Thompson, and George Campbell, first class to Wilbur Hart and merit badges were awarded to Robert McCrystal and George Campbell, Jr.

The bronze palm award was made to Eagle Scout Harold Goeke. The boy leaders under Assistant Scoutmaster Chandler Sterling are acting junior assistant, Harold Goeke, senior patrol leader Keithley and other patrol leaders. Three men connected with the troop have enrolled for the University of Scouting to be held in the Rockford Lincoln junior high school on April 2 and 3.

FIGHTING NORSE FARMING MAN FROM IOWA TO BREAK HOUSE SERVICE MARK MARCH 23

Gilbert N. Haugen, 73, Says He's Good for Several More Years Yet

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

Washington, March 17 — A large, knotty, old Norse farming man, Gilbert N. Haugen of Iowa, on March 23 will break the past record for continuous service in the House of Representatives.

He arrives at that distinction nearly 73 years old after a life spent in agriculture and in the service of agriculture as a member of Congress since March 4, 1899. He was chairman of the agriculture committee of the House in the period when farm relief became a foremost national issue and his name was perpetuated in legislative history by his co-sponsorship of the McNary-Haugen bill.

DIDN'T KNOW OF RECORD

On March 23 Haugen will have been a representative for 33 years and 20 days. When I called on him he didn't know that would constitute a new record. He was accustomed to being the member of longest service in recent Congresses, little interested in any additional honors of the sort.

For 20 years Congressman Henry Harrison Bingham of Pennsylvania held the record which Haugen now surpasses. He died March 22, 1912, after 33 years and 19 days in the House.

Haugen looks out of kind, blue eyes from under shaggy white hair. Sharpening a pencil with a jack-knife, he says he hopes to be here many more years and feels as if he would. No longer chairman of the agriculture committee, thanks to Democratic control, he still hopes that the equalization fee which he devised as the chief piece of machinery in the McNary-Haugen bill will yet be used to save the farmers.

CITES CASE OF WHEAT FARMERS

"With the equalization fee, farmers in the last year would have received from 30 to 35 cents a bushel above

These four pictures of Gilbert H. Haugen show how well he has stood up under his 33-year battle for farm relief. Note how little he has aged in 15 years. He says he expects to last several more terms.

the world price for their wheat," Haugen says. "The Farm Board has done all it could, under the present act, but it has had no method by which to make the tariff effective."

The Spanish-American War was just over when Haugen came here and Speaker Tom Reed had just left, D. B. Henderson filling his place in the chair.

"The farmers were doing fairly well then," Haugen recalls. "I went on the agriculture committee at once, but you didn't hear much about farm relief. I'd say the first step in that direction was the packers and stockyards act in the Roosevelt administration. That was to appear as such. We were fighting the battle of the ranchmen and the small, independent packers in the west."

REMEMBERS CANNON FIGHT

The next high spot in Haugen's memory is the famous House insurrection against the "boss rule" of Speaker Joe Cannon about 1909, led by the now Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska. Haugen says, proudly, that he was in the ranks.

He recalls no more spirited uprising in congressional history. These, he says, are days of harmony. Meanwhile, however, he had begun to study the competition of oleomargarine with butter and became one of the first proponents of oleo legislation. He became chairman of the agriculture committee in 1919.

The real farm relief drive of the '20s, he says, began with the Norris-Sinclair bill, which he compares with the present act under which the Farm Board operates. But he insisted that the surplus crops must be sold rather than held and that the costs and benefits must be equalized among the producers. Hence the equalization fee, which caused the McNary-Haugen bill to be vetoed, no matter how often it was passed.

SAYS TARIFF ISSUE NOW

"There's an issue today between the parties except tariff," Haugen says. "I don't remember that there was ever any other."

He owns more than 4000 farm acres in Iowa, Minnesota, North Dakota and Canada and superintended them until the war. Now he leases them to tenants and "this year, with expenses paid, didn't make half enough to pay taxes."

He has been a widower since 1912 and lives here in a hotel. A son works at the National City Bank in New York and a married daughter lives in Iowa. Out of active farming, he likes flower gardens and sometimes picks flowers to take to his office.

Man, Sought For A Murder, Found Dead

Independence, Mo., Mar. 16 (UP)—A double murder mystery confronted police today when they discovered that the man hunted for three months in the death of a friend was slain at the same time. Discovery of the body of Thomas T. Alexander, 21, in a deep well near Lone Jack absolved him of blame in the death of his friend, Howard Emmett, last December but left authorities without clues in the double killing.

Emmet and Alexander set out on a day's hunting expedition last December 8. Two days later Emmett was found fatally beaten. When Alexander did not appear, police hunted him in his friends' track.

Workmen found Alexander's body in the well together with those of two hounds taken on the hunting trip. The friends, police said, had been attacked at the same time.

HINTS for HOME GARDENERS

This is the seventh of a series of articles on flower gardening written especially for NEA Service and The Dixon Evening Telegraph.

BY DR. WM. A. TAYLOR

Chief, Bureau of Plant Industry, U. S. Department of Agriculture. Hotbeds and coldframes are variations of a method by which gardeners can get the jump on the weather and bring some of the annual flowering plants into bloom two weeks or more ahead of plants seeded in the open.

The hotbed ordinarily is a device for heating the soil by the heat developed in the fermentation and decay of animal manures. The heat evolved in the manure warms the soil and a frame of wood and glass helps retain this heat so that the plants develop in temperatures considerably warmer than in open ground.

The coldframe is a device for catching the heat of the sun and retaining it to moderate the nighttime temperatures within the frame. Either may be of any size. As a practical matter either should be six feet from front to back and some multiple of three feet in length, because standard hotbed sash are six feet long and three feet wide.

Water and Electric Heat
A few gardeners have experimented with heating beds with coils attached to hot-water heating systems, and there has been some experimental work with electrical heating.

A permanent hotbed is a pit lined with timber or brickwork, facing south with the rear wall six inches higher than the front wall and a sloping glass top. How deep to make the pit depends on how much heat is required to counteract the expected coldness of the weather on the terrace and on how early you plan to plant. From a foot to two feet or more of manure well tramped in is usual in the central and northern states, and less in the south.

Hotbed Plants
Flowering plants for which hotbed culture has particular advantages are ageratum, China aster, calliopsis, castor bean, calendula, cosmos, cockscomb, chrysanthemum, godetia, lobelia, marigolds, petunia, pinks or dianthus, scarlet sage, spider flower, and verbena.

The advantages are real and important, but there are a good many tricks of hotbed management. There are a few general principles: Do not plant immediately after piling the manure and setting up the hotbed.

Put a thermometer in the soil and wait until it registers a maximum heat and then declines for a few days. When it reaches 90 degrees, or less on the down grade, it is safe to plant. Seeds need not be planted so deep as outdoors. Firm the earth with a float before planting. Watch ventilation on warm days. Do not water the plants late in the day or the first thing in the morning. Open the sashes a little even on cool days, and leave them well open for several hours as the weather grows warmer.

Cold frames are often managed similarly, but with planting two or three weeks later for the same types of plants.

TOMORROW—Porch and window boxes.

Bloodhound Fights Would-Be Robbers

Spartan, Ill., Mar. 16 —(UP)—A trained bloodhound early today routed three bandits who sought to rob T. Van Antwerp, 86, who lives alone.

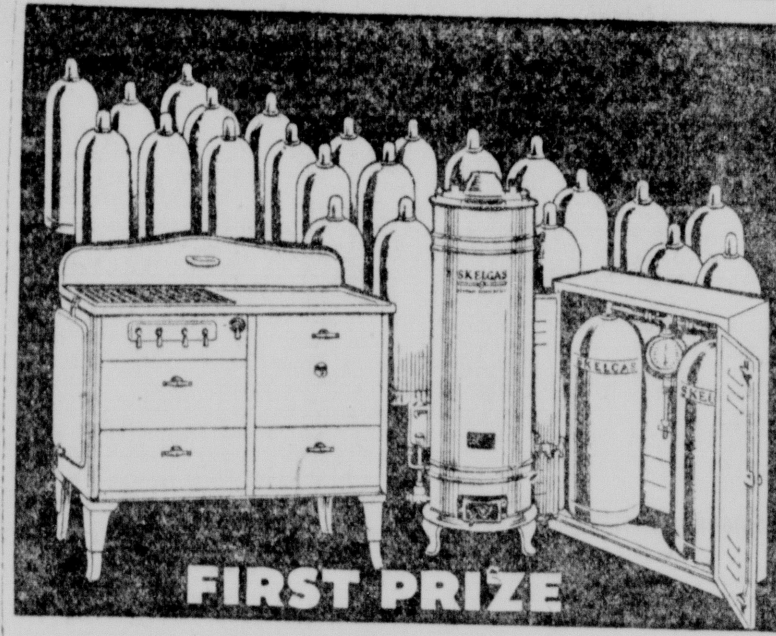

A man forced himself into the house only to be met by the dog which attacked him and was savagely tearing his flesh when two companions rushed from the street and dragged their companion to a waiting automobile and fled.

IT IS so easy to enter our Skelgas contest. There's nothing to buy. All you have to do is write a letter of 300 words or less on "What Skelgas Would Mean To Me". Writing ability is not necessary. It is what you say that counts. Skelgas has so many advantages that it is very easy to write about.

65 NEW STOVES
There are plenty of prizes, 300 of them, including 65 new stoves with a supply of Skelgas for each stove. See the big list of prizes shown at left. It is so easy for you to win a prize in this contest, because there are so many prizes to be won.

You don't need any help to enter this contest, but we have a four-page Skelgas newspaper which is yours for the asking. It tells about Skelgas and contains the letters of people who are already using it.

WHAT IS SKELGAS?
Skelgas is the very heart of rich, natural gas. Clean and intensely hot burning, sootless and odor-free, it is used for cooking, water heating and lighting. It is real gas for all those who live beyond the gas mains.

Contest Closes April 16th. It's easy to write a winning letter. Read the rules, write your letter, and send it to the Contest Editor, Skelgas Company, 2534 Madison Avenue, Kansas City, Mo.

- ### THE RULES:
- Each letter shall be written about "What Skelgas Would Mean To Me".
 - Write not more than 300 words. Elaborate presentations will not be counted in your favor, so write your letter in plain, simple language, on one side of paper only. Place your name and address and kind of kitchen fuel now being used, at the end of your letter.
 - Anyone is eligible, excepting employees and family of employees of Skelgas Company, Skelgas Oil Company, Skelgas dealers, and company's advertising agency.
 - Your letter must be postmarked before midnight, Saturday, April 16, and mailed to Contest Editor, Skelgas Company, 2534 Madison Ave., Kansas City, Mo.
 - All entries submitted become property of Skelgas Company, and may be used by company for advertising purposes without payment. None will be returned to senders.
 - In case of tie, each tying contestant will receive full amount of award.

LEE CENTER ITEMS

By Mrs. W. S. Frost

Lee Center—Donald McAllister is home from Chicago.

Mildred Leake came home from the Gateway Inn Saturday night and remained until Tuesday.

The Crossroads Community Club will present a three-act comedy, "All a Mistake," in Lincoln Hall, Friday night, April 1. The cast comprises eight characters.

The high school basketball team defeated Franklin Grove 35-14 in the Sterling district tournament last week. They were beaten by Ohio, 20-13, so were eliminated from other games.

Josephine and Carolyn Frost of Amboy spent the week-end with their grandmother, Mrs. W. S. Frost. Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Dishong, daughter Faith, Mrs. Hattie Lippincott and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Degner and Betty may were Sunday dinner guests at the Cecil Enery home in Amboy.

The Pilgrim Study Club will give a Belgian tea Wednesday, March 23 at 2 p. m. in the church parlors. The hostesses are Mrs. Roy Boery and the executive board. There will be a program and a silver offering. All of the ladies of the community are cordially invited to attend.

The high school will present three one-act plays Thursday night, Mar. 24 in Woodmen hall. The proceeds are to aid in paying for athletic equipment. The titles of the plays are "Paid to Worry," "He Failed

But Succeeded" and "Wagging Tongues," coached respectively by Miss Gerber, Mrs. Gilboe and Miss Schoemaker. Superintendent Jones will be in charge of ticket sales and all other arrangements.

Mrs. B. F. Mason of Memphis, Tenn., entertained with four tables of five hundred and one of euchre last Saturday night at the James Riley home. Prizes for high score were won by Mrs. W. J. Leake and Holden Risetter, while the consolation prizes were awarded to Mildred Hawbecker and W. J. Leake. The hostess served an appetizing lunch.

Guests from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Rhodes of Compton, Lewis Risetter and son Holden, Mildred Hawbecker of Paw Paw, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Coryell, Hazel and Tommie, Josephine and Carolyn Frost of Amboy, and Mr. and Mrs. Lucian Reese of Scarborough.

Roy Conibear fell down the basement stairs Tuesday morning and injured his ankle seriously.

The St. Patrick's Day luncheon given by the Lee Center unit of the Home Bureau proved a delightful affair. Green predominated in the appointments of the tables with the crepe paper decorations, green pots filled with Irish potatoes, nut cups and favors of pipes and shamrocks. This same color also prevailed in the delicious two course luncheon. Mrs. Raymond Degner acted as toastmistress and the following responded:

Mary Grace Biesecker, origin of St. Patrick's Day, Irish jokes; Mrs. S. E. Dishong, Mrs. James Wheeler, Glen Ikens, two Irish melodies; Mrs. Florence Syverud, fundamentals of

ASHTON NEWS

By Mrs. E. Tilton

ASHTON—Second place awarded Ashton in the basket ball tournament at Mt. Morris on Saturday has brought the Ashton five the admiration of not only their class mates but the entire community and of neighboring schools as well. Polo, with a team that was much taller giving them a decided advantage, took 1st place. The Ashton boys met determined opposition from their opponents at every score, but their dogged persistence and team work continued to pile up points for the Ashton five. Their fair play and excellent coaching were outstanding and their class mates are justly proud of them.

Miss Eva McCaslin who entered the junior class the past week has returned to Rochelle to complete the term. Difficulty in adjusting her studies with the Ashton classes brought her to the decision of returning. The Shearer high school students who recently moved from southern Illinois have discontinued their classes at Rochelle because they were unable to continue those started in the southern part of the state and will enter school next fall.

A series of Lenten programs is now under way at Franklin Grove under Rev. A. E. Thomas.

Wallace Clover, local Frigidahre salesman, attended a convention of the company at Davenport early in the week.

Mrs. Adeline Porter of Rockford is a guest of her niece, Mrs. Perley Cross.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Foss were Dixon shoppers Monday.

Fire badly damaged the Conrad Pfeiffer home on Monday when the entire roof was burned. Prompt action of the fire fighters prevented more serious damage.

Supt. L. W. Miller was an Ashton caller Monday. The marker designating Ashton as a Standard school, has been placed. Supt. Miller hopes soon to honor a second school of count as a Standard school since, barring an addition to its library, another school of the county meets with the requirements which Ashton alone now meets.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Grimes of Oregon spent Sunday at the D. V. Leckron home.

Misses Nellie and Kathryn Griffith will be hostesses to the Presbyterian Ladies Aid society at their home on Thursday. Mrs. W. Hart and Mrs. Adam Faber are assisting hostesses.

Attorney and Mrs. Gehant of Dixon were hosts to a group of relatives and friends Friday evening. Among those who were present were the Sanders, Trask and Shippee families of Ashton and Miss Lola Quick.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gehant were hosts on Thursday evening to a group of friends in honor of Mrs. Gehant's mother, Mrs. Canfield, on her birthday anniversary.

Mrs. Sarah Losey, president of Ashton Woman's club, announces that the next meeting of the Ashton club will be in the nature of an observance of the Washington Bicentennial.

Mrs. Toby Grover who has been seriously ill is now improving.

Mrs. Harold McAnley who sustained a fractured wrist and a gash on the face requiring five stitches in a recent automobile accident, is now much improved.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hardesty were hosts to the Washington Grove card club on Friday evening.

The high score was made by Fred Hardesty.

O. E. S. will hold an initiation meeting on Tuesday evening. This organization sponsors a bridge party on Friday evening. This will be open to the public and plans are being laid for a large attendance as public patronage of such events have been very good in the past.

Mrs. Roy Cross was hostess to the Pine Rock Woman's club on Friday. The program was in charge of the committee of Indian welfare with Miss Blanche Canfield in charge. Interesting discussions on Indian topics were given by Mrs. Minnie Musselman, Miss Canfield and Mrs. Edith Tilton. On Friday, March 25, Principal A. J. Torrens of Ashton will address the club on the subject of vocational training and selection.

Mrs. Edith Tilton plans attending the mid-year commencement exercises of the University of Chicago where her sister, Miss Dorothy Jenkins, will be graduated on Tuesday of this week. Miss Jenkins who often visits her sister, was exempt from final examinations because of the high standard of her work.

Harry Quick of Dixon was an Ashton caller Tuesday.

IT'S YOUR OWN FAULT
If That Cough Hangs On!
For two doses of Broncholine Emulsion will positively loosen it while a whole bottle will chase it right out of your system.
Broncholine may not smell or taste so good (it's not bad, really), but it is safe to take, and does the work. Contains no chloroform, sedatives, narcotics, nor any habit-forming drugs of any kind. And it won't upset your stomach.
Money back if your cough persists after you have taken a full bottle.
Large Bottle, Reg. $1.25, Only 75c

MEN! STAY YOUNG!
Do not grow old before your time. Retain your vigorous manhood by keeping your glands healthy and active. If you are below par, you need PERSENIC to bring you up. This powerful tonic, with its four gland extracts and other ingredients, properly balanced, tends to revive the entire masculine system by arousing sluggish and weak glands. Restores vigor and energy. Any man physically unfit owes it to himself to get a treatment of this wonderful tonic, PERSENIC. Ask for circular.
